I don't know why so many people are afraid to acknowledge the problems we're all going through, because of this monetary system. We don't make our own money, it's private banks. There wouldn't be all of this suffering if we had a better system in place. A responsible, balanced monetary system. It's the most horrendous thing that is holding us back from becoming so much more than we could ever imagine. There has to be more to life than all this piece if paper. That's 3% circulated physical paper money, the rest of it doesn't even exist. It's a sick system. I want to quote Henry Ford. “It is well enough that people of the nation do not understand our banking and monetary system, for if they did, I believe there would be a revolution before tomorrow morning.” Henry Ford I keep saying if the people want to continue to live like this, than they will. The 2% on top want things to stay the same and get richer. The people will have to know what it is they really want. Once the people really wake up and see the root of our problems. They will do everything in their power to distract the people, it's not something new. Read this http://www.abovetopsecret.com/forum/thread412260/pg1 To also quote Warren Buffet he said " But, it's my class, the rich class that's making war, and we're winning" Below is a proposed idea by two people. Our PROBLEM Is This monetary system it has to be changed.. We need a new system, new form of government too, that will regulate it, our system is the root of most of the problems in this world that we're living in. I want you to read this. Look at what our money is? What is it? Don't tell me what it does.. Where did it come from, etc. It's a imbalanced system that favors the elite... The Monetary System Has Failed Our monetary system has failed. Game over. Most of the problems and misalignments in our world today exist because of money. Think about it… Get rid of the monetary system and you eradicate most issues. Only a very small percentage of privileged people, those who know how to play the game efficiently, benefit from this monetary system that has been established at one point in history. At its core, though, this ancient, destructive, ego-driven system of currency, exchange, power, politics, and getting paid for things is based on fear instead of love—doomed to failure. What would people do if they would not receive money for, or a monetary benefit from, the things they know and do? Some say money wouldn’t bring happiness. Why then do millions and millions of people suffer so horribly on our planet? At the same time there are others who watch this with the intention of retaining the status quo, due to money and the fear of loss. What would you do if you would get the things you need and desire, without the need for receiving money for anything? Would you still do the same work you do now? Would you still lie and cheat? Would you still give the impression of being someone that you actually aren’t and doing things that you actually don’t do? Would you still be together with the same person? Would you still hurt people (and, in turn, hurt yourself)? I think that most of these negative emotions and destructive behaviors are due to the monetary system on planet earth. And when you get rid of it you eliminate fearful and harmful behavior at the same time. We need a new system that benefits all equally, all 7 billion of us. Here’s part of my vision for a better world in which most, if not all, people would benefit greatly and enjoy a good and better life. No more money. No money = no more crime. No money = no more wars. No money = no more poverty. No more competitive, egocentric, better-than-thou thinking & attitudes. Prosperity is shared equally among all. We don’t work for one person or one company or one government. Instead, every individual works for the prosperity and well-being of all 7 billion people on our planet at the same time. People still work, but everyone is being compensated or rewarded equally—solely based on the amount of hours contributed to the local, national, and global community. With this substantial change comes an elevated awareness of one-consciousness. Life is filled with, and based on, affinity and harmony. Decisions are lead by unconditional love. Now, some might be wondering how we could possibly survive without money. How would we get food and something to drink, for example? What about shelter? How could we “afford” that new gadget, car, dress, dinner when money doesn’t exist anymore? I am confident that we are smart enough to figure these kind of things out. As a matter of fact, we do that already every single day. Our planet exists, survives, and thrives because of us. Living in a world without money. Without money, we would still continue to do the things we already do, or, even better, do what we love to do. How exactly could this work out? Hmm, perhaps with some sort of a collective reward system from the community? Like the “thumbs up” way of approval you see on social platforms—where good and truly beneficial things are being evaluated, valued, and approved by the collective wisdom. These types of approvals could be on papers, ID cards, websites, whatever. As far as such a collective reward system is concerned, I can imagine 4 – 8 “levels” here, according to the amount of hours contributed (one “level” per hour per day). Those who don’t work would receive (nonetheless good) primary care, whereas those who spent 4 – 8 hours per day working for the prosperity and well-being of all would receive (i.e., could “order”) whatever they desire. Then the other levels in-between. You think that people would get lazy and stop working? Think again… People have desires. Although guaranteeing survival, we want more than the basic stuff and primary care. So we’ll continue working in order to enjoy a better lifestyle (travel, a better car, electronics, jewelry, certain clothes, bigger homes, help, services, etc.). And because we’re being rewarded equally, our motivation rises. Why a maximum of 8 levels? This is to prevent the craziness that’s going on right now, with just a handful of smart or lucky millionaires & billionaires on one hand and an insane amount of people who can’t afford simple basic stuff on the other. By the way, I don’t think that there would be a need for yet another political control mechanism for this type of system. What I do think is that the local, national, and global community enlarge would manage itself quite well—much better than certain people fear. ;-) Let’s use a real-world example. Do you like fresh bread in the morning? The baker continues to prepare fresh bread because he still wants to, not only see your happy smile when you pick up your bread, but also receive your approval for that he did a good job. And the truck driver will continue to deliver the goods necessary to prepare fresh bread as he wants the local community to thrive and be well, as well as receive the collective approval for doing a good job so that he can order/receive the things he desires. Similarly, the truck driver will still receive the gas (from the gas station) necessary to drive his truck, and support from car mechanics. And on it goes… Folks would receive approval from the community for doing a good job and helping everyone to thrive. As a result, they can order the things they desire, according to the hours contributed—without any monetary exchanges. No more differentiation. I see no differences anymore in terms of the amount of reward one receives per hour of work. You spend one hour doing something for the local, national, and/or global community? You get the same amount of approval and prosperity—no matter where you live, which skin color you have, which language you speak, which education you received, which relationships you maintain, which people you know, your ability—or inability—to communicate and persuade, etc. For example, the maid who’ll spent 5 hours cleaning my home tomorrow would enjoy the same level of prosperity than a boss of a big corporation who spent 5 hours in a meeting. Seeing this with the ancient way of life, the boss of the corporation would still have the same lifestyle (more or less), but for the maid it would mean a substantially better lifestyle—elevated to that of the boss. The nurse who saved the life of two people would receive the same amount than the person who manages the hospital. The guy who keeps a city’s streets neat and clean would receive the same amount than the city’s major. The guys and girls who prepare and serve food in a restaurant would receive the same amount than the owner of the establishment. Isn’t it amazing what that would lead us to? No more political restrictions and borders. I further see country borders vanish. Again, no money = no crime. Due to the elevated prosperity among all and the eradication of the monetary system, there would be no need anymore to politically “control” and “protect” stuff. Heightened productivity. With that being said, I think we can spend 50% less time working and still have the same amount, if not more, prosperity and well-being on our planet. If you look at it, most people that work in a 9 – 5 job environment are not that productive anyway, knowing that they only get a very small share of what they actually contribute time-wise. They could deliver the same amount of work in half the time, with more fun at work—knowing that what they do is for the greater good, for the expansion of their own prosperity and well-being as well as that of the local, national, and global community—rather than just for one person or a select few privileged. If you still think that people would simply get lazy and fake things, again, I don’t think so. The local, national, and/or global community would notice it and point it out accordingly (lovingly & supportively, though). In addition, because prosperity is shared equally among all, the desire for pressure and cheating vanishes. Again, remove fear from the equation and start to truly love and trust. Raised motivation. That being said, whatever we do we do it not just for a select few smart people but for all 7 billion. Don’t you think that this alone would give us a huge boost in motivation and productivity? I do think so. Also, as you can’t control (at least not for very long) the way someone lives his or her life (for example, you don’t like the way someone leads a company or country), removing the monetary system would automatically alter someone’s attitude and behavior to one that serves the good for all. Because, once you eliminate money, what is left? The things one wholeheartedly wishes and desires. Conclusion. I hope & wish that we eradicate the ancient and destructive monetary system sooner rather than later; that we head towards oneness; that everyone enjoys a prosperous lifestyle on our planet; that we help and contribute to the local, national, and global community and benefit from it equally—without money, fears, lies, egocentricity, and laws, but with altruism, harmony, honesty, prosperity, trust, and unconditional love. By the way, recent studies show that by sharing the currently available wealth equally across the planet, everyone would essentially be a millionaire (that is, in the outdated monetary system). However, since most people would or could not keep those millions of money, we need a new system in place that guarantees long-lasting welfare for all. Our planet enlarge already does prosper, the wealth is just unfairly and unequally shared. I very welcome the phase of time we are currently in. If you are fearful, don't be. Trust in the good in humanity. Everything will work out well for everybody, including you. People will not stop working. Remember, we need each other. Welcome changes. Applaud the demolition of the monetary system as it will bring us a much better, more beneficial system with infinite, equal possibilities for everyone. Life is supposed to be fun, right? So let's establish a system that ensures a fun experience for everyone. I'm so ready for it. I barely scratched the surface here, though, and I'm open for more ideas from, um, the global community. :-) —Marcus Hochstadt Another good write up too below THE MONETARY SYSTEM A much needed change If anyone has any better ideas, share it with others. If not, please make copies, scan, and email this to everyone you know. Here in the USA and abroad. Tell them the same thing. Here's what I believe should happen. 1. That the one percent should not be allowed to influence our government as to the kind of monetary system the people should have. 2. Stop the tax payer's money from being sent overseas. Help other nations in need with technology, food,etc. 3. Take the making of our currency out of the hands of the Federal Reserve, and make our own currency. 4. There should be a law passed, stating, that anyone taking their business out of the U.S. will lose their citizenship, their patents, and will not be allowed to take any equipment, machinery, etc. with them. Instead, it becomes the property of the U.S. government. 5. Eventually adopt a system of rewarding people for their services with a system, something like that listed below. THE COMING REVOLUTION (The problem of money) By H. Spencer Lewis (1965) It's strange how we always think of a revolution as something that starts suddenly, revolves quickly, and causes more destruction than construction. Perhaps this is because most of the popular revolutions in the past have been of that nature. We do not think of evolution as being rapid and destructive and certainly a revolution should not be any different than a phase of evolution. The wheel of an automobile revolves and it may revolve slowly or rapidly and yet its revolving does not necessarily bring destruction or injury to anything. The Earth is revolving and we certainly can speak of the revolutions of the Earth as something good and peaceful. Science has passed through revolutions as well as evolutions, and so has art and music and many phases of civilizations. But, there is another revolution coming that is different from the ones we've had in the past and will be construtive as well as partially destructive in as much as it will eliminate many of the various things of life, as well as create many new and beautiful things One of the problems that face the future is the monetary system. Rosicrucians have understood for centuries that one of evils of civilization is the arbitrary establishment of money in the form of paper and coin, which is used as a reward for labor, services, and mental efficiency. We can all agree that the rapid development of machinery has enabled a few to control many features of the present economic and monetary systems, We do not say that machinery itself is responsible for these conditions; but we do say that the existence of machinery has enabled the wicked men of the world to do things they would not have done otherwise. Certainly, we would be wrong in calling natural or artificial gas a dangerous thing, condemning it or forbidding anyone to make or use it merely because some have used it for criminal purposes or to commit suicide. Gas can be used constructively as well as destructively. Therefore, it is neither an evil nor good thing except in accordance with the manner in which it is used. The same is true of machinery. It can be used to solve many of our economic problems instead of to increase them. It has aided civilization by helping everyone to live more comfortably and happily. It can be made to serve the same purpose in the future. The great problem is to find some way of rewarding man for his services. The use of money permits too much crime and places an artificial value on things. Money in and of itself should have no power. But, it does and when this power is in the hands of the wrong person, it becomes dangerous. It is not in accordance with karmic law that man should be paid for his services, labor, and devotion with something holy artificial which he can use to injure others or himself. Think of those who have not labored at all but are living on the artificial rewards accumlated by their parents or forebears. With this unearned and undeserved power in their hands, they can live lives of idleness while others who labor do so without proper reward. Money can be used to destroy friend and enemy. For this reason, Rosicrucians have long advocated that some other means of reward be found. If I may venture a suggestion, it is this: A certificate based upon units of service should be substituted for money. As a basis for the system of measuring service, that of the farmer might be taken as the standard. Since his service represents the strength and power of man's life on Earth, one day of his service could be called basic. Taking the farmer's average day and making it the standard unit, some form of script could be used whereby the services of every human being could be properly rewarded. The professional man might receive a script equal to three units of service, the clerk a unit and half. Younger people or those contributing less important service might receive script equalling half of the service rendered by the farmer in one day. All of these scripts representing various units of service could be cashed at stores or exchange for food and neccessities, and even small fractions of a smaller unit might be used for exchange purposes. This script could not be given away, banked, nor saved for the future since it could be exchanged only for neccessites and serviced by the person to whom it was issued. In this way, all would recieve the neccessities of life in exchange for the services they render. Those who labor in productive capacity would be assured of sufficient script to reward them adquently that no bank failures and fluxuations of stock markets or gold standards could affect it. Even the house wife would receive such script for her services in her home. Such a plan would bring about universal employement and prosparity and, in addition, would eliminate bank failures, false investments, and artificial infalation of values and securities. A service unit is the only standard that could be made universal. Email this to others and tell them.

Support this courageous gentleman's advocacy of our taxpayer's interest, the consumers for whom we gladly pay taxes for services like Mr. Cordaray's tenure, but NOT YOUR WARS. THEY have MORE DRAG on both the American and global economies than ANYthing on the civilian side, and that's the Truth. Once these stupid wars (to defend corporate interest, not the People's interest) end, then we'd have more than enough funds to happily pay our taxes for for more Mr. Rich Cordrays throughout the bureaucracy of every agency, yes, even the Defense, eh "War" Department. That way, we'll have someone on our side to sing: "We don't want your privatized political infrastructure! " "We don't want your privatized political infrastructure!" We want a Public-Private Partnership of living together as who we are, Americans, in all our magnificent diversity, not some "brand" of YOUR choosing, but One Of Our Making." The problem is the privatization of the political infrastructure. Don't you see? For the last 40 years the Congress has been besieged by the wolf in sheep's clothing, and now the chickens have indeed, come home to roost. So entangled is the political infrastructure throughout this nation, in the little villages and townships, the 30,000 odd counties throughout these United States, the several hundred cities, the thousands of towns, each of you represent We the People, and not the Corporations you continue to answer to. So you're trying to SELL OFF the GOVERNMENT so YOU can PRIVATIZE what WE NOW LIKE PAYING TAXES FOR, but not your WARS, which YOU USE OUR TAXES FOR! proving the need for more Mr. Mr. Rich Cordrays.

I once wrote the Senate Parliamentarian about my legal analysis that the Filibuster Rules could be changed at any time by a simple Senate majority.That means that 51 Democratic Senators can reestablish the fundamental precept of "MAJORITY RULE" in the US Senate. You will recall that the GOP used this "nuclear threat" against the Democrats when they controlled the Senate, and Dems were threatening to filibuster a Bush appointment. At the very least reduce the number required for cloture so that the united Dem majority can defeat the united GOP minority and get rid of the filibuster for agency appointments. Frankly, if you have any hope of getting any Liberal laws enacted, you should make a rule suspending all filibusters for a 1-4 year test period. Also, all super-majority laws are arguably unconstitutional unless they are expressly mandated by the Constitution on the grounds that they replace Majority Rule with Minority Rule.

I am sick and tired of our lawmakers caring only about the wealthy and nobody else. It's time that the 99% got some protection as well. I don't see a single Wall Street banker suffering over anything except perhaps the decision making process required to know where to spend his next billion; WHEREAS I DON'T HAVE A SINGLE ACQUAINTANCE OR FRIEND WHO WASN'T SEVERELY HURT BY THE RECESSION brought on by those self same bankers!!!

Now more than any other time in history we need consumer protection from financial institutions. Confirm Rich Cordray and let him do his job for the benefit of the American people. Stop the blatant disregard for the interests of the majority in order to the benefit the banking institutions and their cronies. Congress is not even make any attempt to hide their true agenda and it is appalling. Our tax payer dollars have gone to protecting these "too big to fail" bankers and now we are demanding protection from their deceptive banking practices. Show that you are responsible to the people and not the big boys on Wall Street.

Soc Sec and Medicare are completely paid for by the FICA payroll. There is a deficit caused by two wars and tax cuts for the rich corporations hoarding $2 trillion of idle cash in the Cayman Islands and elsewhere. Attacking Soc Sec and Medicare only hides the real culprits of the Nat'l debt.

The American People have spoken. We want the CFPB. If these morally bereft hoodlums on Wall Street cannot play it clean, they must be monitored aggressively. They have had their opportunity to manipulate our economy to their advantage for way too long. Change is inevitable and it must now turn in favor of the majority, the 99%. Confirm Cordray and let CFPB stand as originally created and you senators had better start looking for work elsewhere!

The lack of finesse with which the GOP goes about trying to deflate and destroy any hope of equity for the people of the country rather than just their wealthy backers is further proof that they only have their own interests at heart. Screw the rest of us and the country of folks who don't fit into their ideal of America.

It's time for Harry Reid to put an end to this destructive way the Senate is going. He was stupid to believe a handshake again would be enough to stop the filibusters. He tgot suckered punched yet again. It's time we have a Senate Majority leader with a spine to do what is right to put a cap on the filibusters by limiting the type of legislation that can be filibustered. Never before in history has nominations for cabinet members been filibustered or all Judicial Judges that a sittintg president has nominated have been filibustered and any bill that the president needs or wants are all filibustered. Now the jerks will filibuster any gun controll bills that comje to the floor will be filibustered so no Rerpublican will be on the record as voting against all of them. This is just another Republican political ploy for 2014 to save their asses. So the ones doing the filibustering can run for president in 2016. This is the sickest Senate ever since the founding fathers wrote the Constitution. They all sholuld come back and haunt every last Senator and gang up on Harry Reid as a complete failure and should resign so some one else like Elizabeth Warren to take the helm then something just might get done.

For over thirty y ears the banking industry with the help of many in congress have managed to change the laws enabling them to cheat and steal from the American people. Now that we have an agency that cannot be bought off we have certain Senators who having been bought off again threaten to gut the real reforms in this bill and will not agree to confirm unless they can blackmail the rest of the senate. To you who are doing this I say do what is right or get another job.

You know that 'the-powers-that-be' have control over most, if not all, of the republican senate and house members. No matter if the number of "bought and sold" republican members of Congress is 12 or 43 or 130 or 286, or more, such members of Congress will do anything (I mean anything!) to get total control over the Congress, the Presidency, and the Supreme Court. The corporate-aucracy wants world dominion, a One-World-Order under the umbrella of NATO!! Such a scenario CANNOT be allowed to happen!!!

Had to share this, "Imagine that you live in a community that has hired a new police force to combat a massive wide-spread crime wave. This new and invigorated police force requires no taxpayer dollars for funding, and actually returns excesses to the town – and most importantly returns stolen loot back to the citizens. But suddenly, your town council (of which many accept contributions from the loathsome criminals) decides to NOT INCREASE THE FUNDING LEVEL of the cops who bring in $2 dollars to the towns coffers and harmed citizens for every $1 dollar in non-taxpayer funding (improving the town's deficit)." http://www.senseoncents.com/2013/03/more-price-fixing-on-wall-street/

It is past due time to call out obstructionism for what it is: poor goverance tactics! These tactics of approve and defund have been in play for some time. Now it is coming out in such a strong way as to be completely obvious--a rich and therefore self-appointed power elite are misguided in believing they can buy their way, or bully their way. Consumers need stronger protection than ever before, as e-commerce transforms the way of doing business. If those with huge financial resources can't 'live well' without raking everyone to do so, then their financial and budgeting acumen is the issue, not the need to fairly spread national wealth.

If Corporations Don't Pay Taxes, Why Should You? by Robert Scheer Go offshore young man and avoid paying taxes. Plunder at will in those foreign lands, and if you get in trouble, Uncle Sam will come rushing to your assistance, diplomatically, financially and militarily, even if you have managed to avoid paying for those government services. Just pretend you're a multinational corporation. That's the honest instruction for business success provided by 60 of the largest U.S. corporations that, according to a Wall Street Journal analysis, "parked a total of $166 billion offshore last year" shielding more than 40 percent of their profits from U.S. taxes. They all do it, including Microsoft, GE and pharmaceutical giant Abbott Laboratories. Many, like GE, are so good at it that they have avoided taxes altogether in some recent years. But they all still expect Uncle Sam to come to their aid with military firepower in case the natives abroad get restless and nationalize their company's assets. We still have a blockade against Cuba because Fidel Castro more than a half century ago dared seize an American-owned telephone company. During that same period, we have consistently intervened to maintain the lock of U.S. corporations on the world's resources, continuing to the present task of making Iraq and Libya safe for our oil companies. America's multinational corporations still need the Navy to protect shipping lanes and the Commerce Department to safeguard U.S. copyrights. They also expect the Federal Reserve and Treasury Department to intervene to provide bailouts and cheap money when the corporate financial swindlers get into trouble, like GE, which almost went aground when its GE Capital financial wing got caught in the great banking meltdown. They want a huge U.S. government to finance scientific breakthroughs, educate the future workforce, sustain the infrastructure and provide for law and order on the home front, but they just don't feel they should have to pay for a system of governance, even though it primarily serves their corporate interests. The U.S. government exists primarily to make the world safe for multinational corporations, but those firms feel no obligation to pay for that protection in return. Think of that perfectly legal and widespread racket when you go to pay your taxes in the next weeks, and consider that you have to make up the gap left by the big boys' antics. Also, when you contemplate the painful cuts coming because of the sequester that undoubtedly will further destabilize the economy, remember that, as the Wall Street Journal estimated, the tax savings of just 19 of those companies would more than cover the $85 billion in spending reductions triggered by the congressional budget impasse. The most skilled at this con game are the health care and technology companies, which, as a Senate investigation last year revealed, have become quite expert at shifting marketing rights and patents offshore to low-tax countries. Microsoft boosted its foreign holdings by $16 billion last year, and by the end of the company's fiscal year on June 30, 2012, had $60.8 billion stashed internationally. Through creative accounting, Microsoft was able to claim that only 7 percent of its pretax profit last year was domestically generated. Oracle increased its foreign holdings by one-third, including new subsidiaries in low-tax Ireland, and thereby was able to add a cool $272 million to the company's bottom line by avoiding U.S. taxes. Abbott estimates that it saved $1.6 billion in U.S. taxes through its operations in more than a dozen countries. By moving $8.1 billion of its profits overseas, Abbott was able to claim a pretax loss on its U.S. operations. Johnson & Johnson, another health industry giant, has almost all of its cash—$14.8 billion out of $14.9 billion—abroad, yet still claims to be a U.S. company. One of the longtime leaders in offshore tax avoidance has been that once-American-as-apple-pie company GE, which in a more innocent time hired Ronald Reagan to advertise its wares. Now GE has nearly two-thirds of its jobs abroad, avoided U.S. taxes in the previous two years and has $108 billion stashed overseas. Two years ago, President Obama appointed GE CEO Jeffrey Immelt to chair his Jobs Council, despite the fact that Immelt had cut his company's U.S. workforce by a fifth. GE's expertise is no longer in appliance manufacturing, a division Immelt has tried to shed, but rather in financial manipulation. GE Capital was a leader in the financial scams that still haunt the U.S. economy, and Immelt has been most effective in lobbying Washington politicians to rig the tax laws to benefit his and other multinational corporations. He has created some jobs, but unfortunately, they are abroad, along with his company's untaxed profits. For all these multinational corporations, the love of profit trumps loyalty to country. © 2013 TruthDig.com Robert Scheer is editor of Truthdig.com and a regular columnist for The San Francisco Chronicle.

The CFPB was created to address the huge problem of abusive and deceptive banking and lending, which caused an epidemic of foreclosures, saddled millions of Americans with unmanageable debt, and triggered an ongoing economic calamity. Under Rich Cordray's leadership, the CFPB has ably begun to fulfill its mission by returning nearly half a billion dollars to consumers cheated by credit card companies; moving to end the era of mortgages designed to rake in up-front fees before they self-destruct; standing up for students and families trapped in high-cost education loans; and protecting military families against illegal foreclosures and deceptive education-loan practices. It is doing all this and more, while operating with refreshing candor and transparency and outreach to the public, and with steady oversight from Capitol Hill. Director Cordray has been re-nominated to serve a full term. His leadership has won praise from Republicans and Democrats, and from bankers and consumer advocates. And yet, for two years, a group of Senators has held his appointment hostage.. To those Senators we say: It is time to change your position. We need the CFPB to be effective. We urge you to reject the use of the confirmation process - and the filibuster - to undo legislation passed by wide majorities in the House and Senate, signed by the President, and supported by large majorities of the public. The choice before the Senate is simple: allow an up-or-down vote on this nomination, or open the door to more of the slippery financial practices that the CFPB is working hard to prevent. That would be terrible not only for consumers but for responsible lenders and the broader economy.

Please pressure President Obama to make this nomination - and the Senate's outrageous delay in confirming - a big deal. Without energetic presidential leadership, I don't think enough will get done. In which case, frankly, many like me will be unable to blame republicans only. Marsha Siegel

Your mission, should you ever decide to accept it, is to take care of ordinary Americans. "Ordinary Americans" does not mean the mega-rich that buy your allegiance with bribes. It means the people who actually voted for you (or against you, as the case may be), but who you are sworn to represent. This Agency exists, and needs a director. If you don't like the Agency, itself, then do what is needed to change it, but don't hold it up first by denying it a head. Your inaction is hurting many people, and this is NOT your job.

I support Rich Cordray, and I want to see advocates for the people in place against the overreach of Wall Street and banking institutions, which I think should be whittled down to size just as trustbusters did a century ago. Banks and hedge fund operators and other financial institutions need restraints. The people need a break. Let the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau do its job. Confirm Rich Cordray. Thank you.

The argument that business will suffer from putting reasonable consumer protections into law is nonsense, and is not based on fact. The Glass Stegall Act was effective in preventing an economic collapse without adverse effects on business, and our subsequent economic collapse was a direct result of the Act being repealed. Why isn't that being shared with your constituents who will be affected by your failure to confirm an effective Head to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau?

One of the biggest, most time-sucking problems in America today is the predominance of faulty, obsolence-planned products, and poor to non-existent customer service on the. It is an endless source of stress and expense in American life. Consumer protection laws should be enormously expanded and strengthened, not gutted! This is one of my biggest pet peeves as a voter, and if anyone votes to weaken consumer protection, they will lose my vote.

I have watched Rich Cordray as he spoke to a a sub committee on CSPAN. He is an honest broker for the people and Senator Barraso and Senator Enzi he needs to be confirmed. If you truly care about the people of Wyoming as you say you do you will help to confirm Rich Cordray or at least allow and up or down vote. Sincerely, Patricia Laird - Saratoga, Wy.

Wall Street banks destroyed the world's economies six years ago and some bankers should be in jail. At least E. Warren got the CFPB created and she should have been it's director. Rich Cordray should have been confirmed over a year ago. Republicans in congress are outrageous!!!!!! The American people are waking up.

I am sick to death of a minority of Senators who obstruct much needed reform, especially in the banking industry and credit card companies. I am sure if these certain Senators objecting to Rich Cordray's re-nomination were investigated for possible illegal contributions by these banking officials and the credit card companies to their re-election campaigns, heaven only knows what surprises this country and it's voters would uncover. It is time for these few Senators as well as the Congress to start working for the majority of citizens in this country, instead of their "special interest" puppets! Melody Abercrombie

The "in serious denial" Republicans don't realize how damaging their actions are and how they will negatively impact future elections. The current GOP is the most poorly managed political party in America's history, and it's on a treadmill to irrelevance. First the House Republicans voted not to protect women against violence .Now, these senators are voting not to protect ordinary Americans from the predatory behavior of the financial services industry that's in the headlines daily.

Who are you going to tax when the middle class is gone? Corporate profits continue to hit records and our politicians with their corporate lobbyist cronies laugh at us all the way to their offshore banks. Big media creates false catastrophes to hide the hands in our pockets. We subsidize big oil and let them collapse the arctic shelf, poison our ground water and our oceans. How far is too far, when will you stop the greed?

I've said for a long time that a coup has taken place in this country, slowly over the past three decades. The power has been stolen away from The People and the wealth of the people has been being slowly stolen as well. It's long past time that The People take back the power and their money.

Not a single bank employee was prosecuted for the largest banking crisis in American history. One reason is that Congress in its continution ineptitude and drive to protect big business as all costs has consistently reduced the regulations to keep this from happening. Please this time vote for your middle-class and poor constitutents and not for big business as usual.

Sens. Murray and Cantwell: Please lead the way in the reconfirmation of Mr. Cordray, without any changes that would weaken the CFPB. The Republicans are shameless, but the Democrats must remain strong in support of the consumer. Thank you, Fayette F. Krause Pt. Townsend, WA 98368

Elizabeth Warren: "Never before in American history has a minority in the Senate blocked a nominee to try to get changes in a law they don't like and don't have the votes to change." "Blocking Rich Cordray is about weakening the agency," says Warren. It's "about keeping the game rigged" so "consumers remain in the dark -- and a few bad actors can rake in big profits." She is perfectly correct and such obstruction should be stopped in the name of democracy and what is right.

Fight carefully and effectively to restore our democracy before it is too late. We must not let the lackeys of the oligarchy run and ruin our country. The bankers must be stopped. Intelligent regulation is important to civilization. As you know, one percent of Americans have more than 35 percent of household wealth, and political campaigns are primarily funded by the wealthiest .05 percent of the population. The oligarchy wants to cut social welfare programs and funds to education so that even more money can go to the wealthy people who run this country.

People argue the CFPB is useless and not doing its job, but the reality is there is very little it can do and now you want to get rid of even what little it can do? The consumer was not protected in 2007 when the whole housing crisis blew up and instead of shoring up and fixing the bureau, Congress has done nothing.

The old adage that we in the USA have the best legislators money can buy seems to be proven accurate by the current move in the Senate to weaken the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau according to the wishes of big businesses and banks who have little or no need to be protected, whereas the consumers certainly do have a great need for protection.

Any Senator that stays in the State of Illinois that stands in the way of any Presidentual nominee other than for non-qualifications of said post should and shall be removed for the Senate. I am very tired of the little Senators who have not grown up and assumed their place in our nation. One very irritated citizen of America.

It is disgraceful that U.S. Senators who accept money from the banking industry that nearly singlehandedly brought the U.S. economy to its knees refuse to ratify an appointment of the Director to the one agency (CFPB) designed to try to slow the banker's greed-fueled gravy train. The current Congress lacks the simple integrity to promote the general welfare (See Preamble to U.S. Constitution) and the historical perspective to be embarrassed by its cupidity. You would make the main culprits of the Tea Pot Dome scandal blush.

I will vote against every Republican from now on. Why can't you, too? The filibuster must be strictly regulated and limited to truy, provable issues. Saying no for the sake of saying no is silly. Learn how to make strong, irrefutable arguments. Work together. Compromise does not mean obstruction or capitulation. What's wrong with you people? Protect your constituents, we the people, of the United States. Don't protect just the rich and powerful.

Dear Senators Alexander and Corker, You are both thoughtful and principled men and I trust you to do the right thing here, no matter how hard you are being lobbied by big interest groups. Our economy is slowly recovering from excesses of banking industry and the pecuniary practices that hurt the American middle class, who are working so hard they don't have time to research bad methods and changing rules imposed by credit card companies and banks. We need the protection of the government and the majority of Americans will notice if you block this as it leaves them vulnerable to seemingly uncontrollable forces in the financial industry that are bleeding them dry in small fees and charges that have the tendency to mount rapidly into larger debt. Thank you for reading this, Susan W. Knowles Pikeville and Nashville

We need meaningful regulation, not deregulation. Some of us know that the entire "trickle down/deregulation" economic tonic sold by a bunch of hucksters for over 30 years is a fraud designed to screw the people and give more money to the 1%. We have had a bellyfull of that nonsense. Get on with reinstating some meaningful restraints on the thieving banks and Wall Street.

Unfortunately, the U.S. has become one of the more corrupt systems in the world. Greed and criminality has been at fault many times when other nations have fallen. Is this country heading toward the inevitable unless major changes and approaches are brought about. The consumer protection bureau is an absolute necessity. Do not forget senators, you will be buried with the rest of the population, and further you will be at fault.

Senators, As a consumer I depend on consumer protection programs such as the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to look out for my interests. As my Senator, you should also be looking out for my financial interests, not those of bankers and lenders who brought on this huge economic crisis and have caused millions of Americans to suffer. Stop blocking the confirmation of Rich Corday as head of the CFPB and do what's right for the American people!

The GOP needs to do the work of all Americans not just their limited constituencies and Grover Norquist. Quit obstructing and needlessly filibustering President Obama's appointees, new programs to help the economy, end the ridiculous sequester and pass some real gun reform laws. Do your jobs!!! If you don't the results in November 2014 will not be to your liking. Do your jobs!!!

Everyone in this country needs to buy something, no matter how frugal we are. Confirm Cordray and let the CFPB do its job to protect us from the greed and cupidity that led us into the Great Recession, in which we still flounder! It's far from over, and the huge banks and the abusive financial industry conscienceless rulers need the control of the CFPB to prosecute and protect all the innocent people who have been abused by their actions.

This is an agency we really need. The financial institutions of this country, need to have an oversight committee. Other wise we will keep having these financial situations where the tax payers of this Country keep getting ripped off, because instead of going after the people who cause the problem, our Government solves the problem by giving tax dollars to the people who cause the problem in the first place. Funny how it's always in the billions when the problem is discovered?

Frankly, I'd summarily dismiss and send to jail any Wall Street or Big-Banking special interest lobbyist, CEO, or hedge fund manager, who I could determine were in any way associated with, or in collusion and criminal activities for, the GREED PESTILENCE that SCREWED the economy and the American people... thanks to these criminal's gross malfeasances, graft-mongering, and egregious irresponsibilities during our current RECESSSION... the one we're still victimized by!

We need to put back in place the banking regulations that Ex-President Clinton removed while he was in office. They were working for decades and their removal served to bring on the bank failures and the resulting rescue of "To Big To Fail Banks". These banks should have been divided up into banks that were smaller and not a threat to the economy if they went under. No bank should be allowed to become so large as to become a threat. Our new and growing threat to what economy we have left is the growing bubble of rapidly increasing farm ground prices!

I support approving Richard Cordray to head the CFPB immediately. I reject the Republican proposal to appoint a committee to manage the CFPB. I heard the argument for a committee instead of appointing one person and I reject it. I am your constituent and I want Richard Cordray appointed to head the CFPB now. The Time is NOW to get off your bottoms and re-appoint Rich Cordray to continue doing the job #1 of protecting consumers, the American public. My husband and I have lost much of our life savings through market crashes and de-valuation of our home that was paid for years ago. We DEMAND action now....we can't wait!!! I know the corporate cartels would just love to get a puppet appointed to run this very important bureau. I'm sure that is why Elizabeth Warren got the boot. That didn't work out quite like the cartels envisioned. Now she is a senator who I supported even though she does not represent me in Congress. Confirm Rich Cordray and do your job - LOOK AFTER THE INTERESTS OF THE PUBLIC ALL OF THEM!

It's time for the GOP to do what the majority of Americans voted for. So quit wasting time and do what the majority in the Senate has called for. This is nothing but grandstanding and latent racism. It's easy to see that many in the GOP have a problem with the color of Obama's skin.

I may need student loans and credit cards. Later on, I may buy a house. I don't need predatory loans. I need the transparency and consumer financial protection that Rich Cordray stands for. I am tired of government only standing up for the interests of big business. The main purpose of government is standing up for the rights and needs of all the people. We need Rich Cordrays nomination to proceed and not be blocked.

When will our senators use their legislative "privileges" to help the country rather than act like spoiled children wanting their own silly ways. It's time for a revamping of our legislative system. This year they've spent more time on vacation than work and when they "work", they spend their time obstructing or doing nothing! Where are the true statesmen?

Hey, I have a great idea. Why don't we GUT the DOD's budget? Why don't we gut the budget for over-paid Washington and State Capitol politicians? Why don't we stop giving No-Bid contracts to War Mongering, War Profiteering Weapons of Mass Destruction manufacturers? Why don't the American people wake the fk up and stop falling for the same BS that the RepubliCratic monopoly has over our minds, schools, and media? Why not VOTE for ANYONE other than the CORPORATE OWNED RepubliCratic monopoly? Perhaps this is all because American for the most part are just too plain stupid to anything other than bury their heads up their asses.

A war there was no good reason to fight and that was never part of the budget was one half of what got us into this fiscal mess. Weakening regulations and oversight that protect consumers from the greed is good (especially when the little people are the only ones who will ever have to cover their gambling losses) crowd is the other half. Confirm Cordray and let our Consumer Financial Protection Bureau do its job instead of leaving us to the sharks.

To me, a Korean War veteran, who had idealistically volunteered and fought to protect our democratic government (of, by and for the people), now is witnessing a thoroughly dysfunctional government. Isn't the purpose of government of the people, to help the people? The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau was established to help odrdinary Americans, and the job of Rich Cordray is to facilitate that the Bureau does it's work. Why are you jeopardizing this effort? For the sake of all ordinary Americans, with my one vote and voice, I ask you to follow your common sense and support the Bureau and Cordray. Edgar A. Hamasu

Again ,our congress is still in the back pocket of big business and Wall street. But they claim to be representing the everyday hard working American tax payer. I wonder if any or all of these 43 Senators have some sort of deal with Wall street to even think of blocking the confirmation of Rich Cordray . It is quite evident that this man is doing his job as required to be head of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and these 43 Senators are more concerned with Wall street than the protection of the consumer !

Is there anything that the Republican party won't stand in the way of that helps the American people. Somehow we've just go to get through to the people in the states that elected them that they are not serving our interests.

The American Dream has become a nightmare for the average American who has to watch the middle class sliding down towards poverty while the ultra rich get richer. Some of our Congressional representatives have chosen to side with special interests against the rest of us. Come election day--they will get theirs! Meanwhile , sign the petition.

Liberalized banking regulations on private, commercial and investment banking fostered the most wrenching financial dislocation in the US since the Great Depression. Congress, having seen the massive error, enacted a few modest reforms in the CFPB. Now, Senators beholden to bankers for their financial support are attempting to obstruct the nomination. We know what's going on, and we won't stand for it! Mr. Cordray deserves confirmation without further obstruction or delay.

Deceptive banking and lending practices have many victims. There is a far-reaching ripple effect because borrowers often have several dependents, most of whom are minors. Those who are not minors could be college students, job seekers or both. Therefore, the USA needs the CFPB to protect Americans from greedy, unscrupulous swindlers and con artists, many of whom actually work for banks with ATMs, teller windows, vaults and everything!

Robert P SIngleton

Deceptive banking and lending practices have many victims. There is a far-reaching ripple effect because borrowers often have several dependents, most of whom are minors. Those who are not minors could be college students, job seekers or both. Therefore, the USA needs the CFPB to protect Americans from greedy, unscrupulous swindlers and con artists, many of whom actually work for banks with ATMs, teller windows, vaults and everything!

senior citizen and having lived through the mess left by the financial industry and their allies I find it deplorable that the Senate is again trying to block appointment of Mr. Cordray. The average taxpayer does not have the money to buy the influence that this industry has, but the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau under Mr. Cordray's leadership at last would help level the playing field. It is time to move forward on this nomination. Stand with us, the taxpayer and we will stand with you, but know this failure to do so will have consequences come the next election.

In the aftermath of the banking industry's greed driven pillage & plunder that lead to the financial crises Americans are in, the ONLY elected representative that votes against or obstructs legislation to rein herd on the ongoing massive financial atrocity is NOT working for the people, but FOR the very corporations & those running them who illegally & immorally orchestrated the crash. Not only should these so called representatives be stopped, but those who broke the laws that robbed the country should be held accountable, prosecuted to the fullest extent AND made to pay restitution from their ill-gotten fortunes.

Dear Senator: Thank you for you time. I wanted to add my own comments to this chain letter sent to my email address from the MoveOn organization. I want you to confirm Richard Cordray as the leader of the CFPB. The US needs banking and financial protections for the consumer. There is no dispute to that fact. The economic cost of the previous crisis in our economy is still undetermined because of the reluctance of the banking and financial inrtitution's to supply data to the government about what the causes and economic triggers were tha caused the crisis. The American people want results and not argument over regulating the banks. Support Richard Cordray's nomination and let the government continue to provide the regulation that the banking institiutions reqiure. Thank you for your time. SIncerely, Harold Manning this is a no-brainer that benefits the PUBLIC good. The Bureau has been duly established according to the laws of the land. Quit the obstruction, and let the Bureau do its job..... and then get back to yours. passing legislation that will strengthen education, research, and infrastructure to create jobs and help the USA recapture its pre-eminent psition in the world.

It is very disturbing that these senators have taken such a position after their bailout of everybody except the average citizen. And now the average citizen cannot get even the most basic of possible relief from predatory practices by the financial industry, the oil industry, the car industry, and everybody else. This is outrageous and unacceptable.

I am hoping that Rich Cordray's leadership also includes informing Americans of the fight to diminish the power of these banks, which are "too big to fail". We need to change the paradigm of prosecution if our judicial system cannot pursue banks/bankers, which have finagled power that seems absolute. No democracy should uphold an institution that has absolute power over the economy and thus financial health of its citizens.

Richard Cordray must be confirmed. In the end, if consumers are not protected, it may help some businesses in the short term, but if consumers become wary and if we are put at a disadvantage, it could put consumers on the defensive and inhibit them from making some purchases that they might have made. I know that is how I feel.

It is sorely unfortunate that members of the senate are owned by corporations their role is obviously to do as their masters tell them (for money) I thought we put criminals in jail in this country but apparently not they buy their way into government and then screw the American public. Any little thing a citizen can do to send this gutter trash back to their hovels should be done even if we can only annoy them. Do not muck a bout the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau or Rich Cordray.

As a mortgage holder, consumer, and small business owner accepting credit cards, I can personally attest to the need for the CFPB. Siding with financial institutions to squelch this entity puts you on the wrong side of right, This oversight of banking, lending, credit card practices is a must, for without it, unfortunately, the consumer is not adequately protected from constantly emerging unfair practices. STOP YOUR OBSTRUCTIONISM, PLEASE!

My congressional representative and regulatory governmental agencies have been power less to respond to costly credit reporting errors and deceptive mortagage lending practises that I have encountered and reported. These errors and omissions cause further calamilty on my business planning and implementation. They effective block project for which most individual would otherwise implement. These are nothing more then bureacraticly dysfunctional error prone agencies that are oblivoius to the difficulties, hardships, and delays they cause.

In case you have forgotten the election results, Pres. Obama was re-elected, and the people want protection from the greed of the bankers and the credit card companies. We have worked hard all of our lives and are now senior citizens, but I will make phone calls and knock on doors to make sure those who take from the middle and lower class to enrich the already top 1% wealthy who then use all those loop holes and tax havens to avoid helping our country flourish as it has in the past when special interest groups hadn't bought the votes of our elected officials.

This Bureau is a much-needed essential first step toward getting wrong-minded and unAmerican methods out of our government, our financial and corporate entities in order for this country to regain its moral, ethical purpose. It is a job that must be done, and done by someone who has the good of the people at its core. Confirm Rich Cordray without any of the weakening changes you have been demanding. Now!

If senators honestly oppose Cordray and vote against him, that is their right. But it is outrageous to refuse to have a vote, not because they oppose Cordray but because they want to prevent the CFPB from doing its job. If that is how they feel, they should introduce legislation modifying or abolishing CFPB. They should not try to gut it by the back door means of refusing to approve a director.

Senators, your job is to represent the overwhelming majority of middle-class Americans. When banks and financial corporations use their size and clout to prey on Americans, we need the government to step in, in the same way we need the government to step in when a predator is preying on women and children in our community. CFPB was created to protect the American people from financial predators. Your job is to let it do its job.

The CFPB was created to protect the CONSUMER, but, as usual, the GOP--being the lackeys of Big Business--are doing their usual blocking and filibustering and just generally being childish obstructionists. Yes, I know, we're supposed to be polite--but you TeaBaggers are really obnoxious and don't seem to understand courtesy. Or even the concept of “One nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty AND JUSTICE for all.” Hint: it’s not ‘justice’ if it’s only applied to one teeny tiny segment of the nation. And you really need to have somebody look up the word ‘indivisible’ and explain it to you.

It's a shame that these people can't get their game right. Blocking a nominee just for them get to the law. That's there job to see that the law is written to specifics they want. They can't block a nominee because of the Agency, the nominee is a qualified individual. Let the man pass.

Republicans are still trying to drown this in the bathtub...not to mention wall street..this is extremely important in an environment that the Fed gives out money to stimulate the economy, and the bank invest it in the stock market rather than lend it out...I am a poster child for good credit and Wells Fargo put me through a demeaning process that went on for 90 days...they were hoping I'd give up, or be so offended by their conditions...why not it;s much more profitable for them to have the money in the stock market and since they're selling my loan to the gov't. So the Senate wants to let the Wall Street genius/gurus get richer at the expense of all of us who have our 401/IRA Plans invested - but will be gutted by the crooks who have managed to steal with the sophisticated and lack of control and oversight. What is going on with our Government??? Why do you not want oversight and rules?? If you want steal from us, all I can do is vote you out in the next election. Me and all my friends. We shall remember!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

It is time for clear and powerful legislation that protects the hard earned money of Americans who have been robbed by the un-monitored actions of banking and lending institutions, who have proven by their actions they cannot be trusted. It is unfortunate for this kind of legislation to be needed, however, that is the only way to prevent future abusive and deceptive banking and lending practices.

Why do the republicans continue their path to spit in the face of the middle class working man and how are these same senators get elected by their constituents when they do nothing for them at all. They cater to corportations and the upper 1%. One of these days more will realize just what game they are playing and they will not be reelected.

Petition Statement The CFPB was created to address the huge problem of abusive and deceptive banking and lending, which caused an epidemic of foreclosures, saddled millions of Americans with unmanageable debt, and triggered an ongoing economic calamity. Under Rich Cordray's leadership, the CFPB has ably begun to fulfill its mission by returning nearly half a billion dollars to consumers cheated by credit card companies; moving to end the era of mortgages designed to rake in up-front fees before they self-destruct; standing up for students and families trapped in high-cost education loans; and protecting military families against illegal foreclosures and deceptive education-loan practices. It is doing all this and more, while operating with refreshing candor and transparency and outreach to the public, and with steady oversight from Capitol Hill. Director Cordray has been re-nominated to serve a full term. His leadership has won praise from Republicans and Democrats, and from bankers and consumer advocates. And yet, for two years, a group of Senators has held his appointment hostage.. To those Senators we say: It is time to change your position. We need the CFPB to be effective. We urge you to reject the use of the confirmation process - and the filibuster - to undo legislation passed by wide majorities in the House and Senate, signed by the President, and supported by large majorities of the public. The choice before the Senate is simple: allow an up-or-down vote on this nomination, or open the door to more of the slippery financial practices that the CFPB is working hard to prevent. That would be terrible not only for consumers but for responsible lenders and the broader economy. Alan Moeser

How do you know that what you are invoved in will not hasten the ruin of this country. Be balanced in your thinking abilities and be an American 1st and last. dgw I should not have to tell you these things based upon the oaths you have already sworn to adhere to based upon your word of honor and the God's Word the Holy Bible.

Gentlemen and ladies, What is going on in Congress??? Why can't you folks simply do the right thing?/ What is so hard about listening to your electorate and allowing an organization that was created do its job to protect the rest of us..that have so little a voice. This time, those that have a belief in the Bureau, what it was created for..and the man at the helm...should this time draw a clear line in the sand with your colleagues(on both sides of the aisle)...those that are for and those that are against...and this time really get in their grill, I mean really get in their face...and the heck with decorum on the floor.....call them out, on the floor. Call them by name, call them out by Party lines,.. so that CSpan can show us that someone..ANYONE has the balls (apologies ladies!)... for once, JUST ONCE...go on record and clearly state that those that do not want this agency ..ARE the deterant to our forward motion as a country we (the people) can believe in. Call them out and in your loud and clear voice..ask them to State publicly why this agency/Bureau is not good for us. I read this once, on a bathroom wall in a small logging town in Washington State: "If Pro is For..and Con is against.. ...then what is the opposite of progress...? Yup, that's where we are again..but we don't need to be. Please confirm Mr Cordray and keep his Bureau moving forward..and protecting us all. Please know too, that mid term elections are coming..and again, either you do the right thing..or you will be out on the unemployment line like so many of us now!!!

I am sooooo tired of Republican obstructionism. It cannot be rightly called government. It is not democracy. They should all be sent home with NO PAY AND NO RETIREMENT - just like they are trying to do with the rest of us. This agency would try to protect consumers from Republican greedy politicians and corporations, but of course politicians don't want that, even Democrats except the notable exception of Elizabeth Warren, who may be the only politician who really understands what the financial world is doing to the detriment of all of the rest of the population.

We the people, the ordinary people of this country, desperately need the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to do its job. We've already lost big time to big banks with no criminal charges, no one doing any time at all to pay penance for taking us to the brink of destruction. The disparity between the super rich and the middle class is growing and will eventually bring us down. We cannot survive without a middle class and the Republicans act as if that is too minor to even consider. Confirm Rich Cordray.

Stop the GOP obstruction

Catherine Willias
Everett, WA 98208
Mar 30, 2013

We need serious Tax Reform now and not in the vague future. As a retiree and a single person the Tax Laws kill me, my retirement account belongs to the wealth. The present Tax Codes takes care of the wealthy and for sure not the middle or poorer working classes and retired classes of America. I am tired of supporting the wealthy who hate the middle classes because they believe they are beyond or should pay taxes.

The Republicans must stop behaving like spoiled children who didn't get their way. This childish obstructionist behavior is shameful and wrong. The Republicans have no more "right" to win every election than anyone else. When they lose they need to take "no" for an answer, accept the message the voters sent them, and go back to work to see if they can find a middle ground that everyone can accept. Throwing a tantrum like a child who's lost its lollipop is beyond immature. The Republicans lost the election. The people have spoken. How about altering your views to put them more in line with what people want. No more bullying. No more feelings of entitlement. Do your job and work with the Democrats to run the government and make this a better country for all of us. There are many ways to be true to your basic principles and still move forward together.

It is universally understood that our failure to deal with the Wall Street criminality that literally destroyed our economy, and ruined so many American lives as collateral damage, has left us with Banks bigger than ever and which continue unabated the same risky profiteering that lead to this disaster! This is truly the most serious threat we face to our national security. Are we becoming a hellish oligarchy wherein Wall Street dictates government policy? This simply anti-American -- we must stand-up and stop the threat of Wall Street running the country. Break-up the big banks, prosecute the corporate criminals to the full extent of the law, and legislate tough regulation once again over banks and corporations!

Having worked in the consumer credit field, I know the dangers that exist for uneducated consumers. Let the buyer beware is not enough for today's society and people need someone looking out for their interests. The companies have plenty of people looking out for theirs, it is only fair to put someone in place on the consumer (voter) end.

Banks have gotten away with collapsing the American Financial System with no consequences. Middle class Americans who paid hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest to banks lost their homes because they owed more in principle than the house was worth. Who protected them? The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is a direct result of corporate greed. Stand up for the middle class. Confirm Rich Cordray or pay the price at the polls.

Confirm Rich Cordray. Fully support and fund the CFPB. This is our money that we are talking about. We are watching you with our votes. How many of you would like to get re-elected? We outnumber you both in votes and in money even as you side with billions of investor's dollars. Our money still outnumbers yours. Do the right thing - for you and us - now.

We've had enough of corporate control over our government agencies that were established to protect the American people from the greed that drives corporate decisions, often at the expense of the health and welfare of the citizenry and the environment. Enough already! Reclaim our democratic institutions and a democracy that is truly by and for the people...not for the bottom line profits of Wall Street and corporations. Move the up or down vote on the CFPB...the ONLY government agency in existence today that upholds its mission with integrity.

We don't have a commission to run the F.B.I. or the C.I.A. The idea of a commission to run the C.F.B. is only a way for "the camel" of the financial institutions to get their noses into the tent of regulation. Senators Warner and Kaine, we will be listening. Please consider this as a plea to do what is felt to be the right thing to do.

It is now the time to allow an up-or-down vote on the nomination of Richard Cordray to the CFPB. Otherwise, we open the door to more of the slippery financial practices that the CFPB is working hard to prevent. That would be terrible not only for consumers but our economic future. The banks caused a melt down of our economy, and need to be regulated. Greed and profit should not be allowed to ruin our great country. Rules and laws mean nothing if they are not enforced. Consumers need protection. That is government's job.

The lack of consumer protection from corporate greed has helped the financial system in Cyprus become what it is today. A horrible mess. Consumers certainly do need protection in this world of mega corporations with almost infinite power. Please confirm Mr. Cordray and work TOWARDS strengthening the CFPB ASAP! Thank you, Greg Egan

The CFPB needs a director. To block the appointment because of the board's existence and not the nominee's qualifications is inappropriate and in my opinion grounds for opposition to any said legislators at the ballot box.

I believe the CFPB is necessary to protect the public from the banks, which have used neary any excuse to ripoff the public. It is sad Ms. Warren could not have been confirmed to head the agency she helped develope.

This has been the rule rather then the exception all through President Obamas terms in office, that is to delay any act that the president wants to put through which takes the attention away from the real problems such as jobs taxes infrastructure and social programs. What I don't believe is after seeing all of this being done by these people they will probably be re-elected and I'm talking about the Tea and Republican Party.

Universal Movement of Consciousness by Edson Udson (all rights reserved) A great movement for peace, love and freedom around of the world, but to obtain results and do solve problems as poverty, abuses and violence is necessary "union" and "good will" translated in a simple word..."love". Respecting and preserving the nature or combating differences as racism, sexuality or culture and accepting any kind of love, no discriminating anyone in anywhere for anything. I believe it be possible...because love, respect and freedom are all of good. for worldwide children

Anyone who votes against this confirmation shows whose pockets they are in, and they need to be voted out of office when they are next up for reelection. In the meantime they should be held up to ridicule and disgust---they are the lowest of the low.

Americas Consumers need the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau operating at it best. That means having Richard Cordray as its leader. We know that some Senators are more interested in protecting their Business Benefactors than they are the welfare of Americas Consumers. We are relying on the majority of the U.S. Senate who understand that if Americas Consumers have confidents there is someone in Washington looking out for their interest when they sign a mortgage or credit card contract then we all benefit, even those "Business Benefactors".

To ALL REPUBLICAN SENATORS: The CFPB needs to work for the American consumer. It cannot do this if it is not independent and free from political influence. Richard Cordray is the person to lead an effective Protection Bureau. We do not want Senators to be able defang this agency with threats to defund it or not appoint directors. We see that happen to too many other agencies. Thank you.

The US Senate has become virtually nothing more than a playground for the Obstructionists with the tacit approval of Democrats. I have written to our two Washington State Senators before about the horrible state our National politics has degenerated into. Special interests rule and the Citizens of our once great country continue to suffer ever increasing burdens as a result. Shaking my head in disgust !

Things need fixed in DC!! Congress won't let the President nominate any one to do jobs that are necessary like the consumer financial PB. Yet last year we lost at least $5 billion to identify theft at the IRS and this year it may be $21 billion. It is all the fault of congress. While the thieves get billions of dollars, congress is always on vacation and golfing and out there telling lies on fox. Also, I don't want murdock owning the LA Times!!!!! He is a traitor to our country and everyone in DC caters to him and gives him any thing he wants. I'd send him back to Australia as a criminal. He helped start the war against Iraq. Bad!!Bad!! bad!!

It is time to represent the all ok the American voters and stop only resenting wall street and the 2 present. You will continue to loose elections and eventually will loose power until you represent the 98 persent. I am a former lifelong Republican. I have left the party. I only suport politicians who support me and causes of fairness and justice. When did the GOP start practiceing prostitution,?

This is EVERYTHING that is wrong with Washington!!! You were elected to represent what THE PEOPLE want from their government. And now you're threatening to block a nominee for an agency that does nothing BUT work for the people you were elected to represent, just because it goes against everything your lobbying masters stand for?!?! Shame on you!!! How do you sleep at night?

This truly is outrageous. As Elizabeth Warren said, "Never before in American history has a minority in the Senate blocked a nominee to try to get changes in a law they don't like and don't have the votes to change. Why don't you people grow up and fight fairly. Why do you insist on hiding behind a filabuster rule you have invented to block what you cannot get the votes to block. THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE SO SICK OF YOU REPUBLICANS AND YOUR PATHETIC WAY OF NOT GOVERNING.

I've pretty much had it with Congress acting like a playpen of spoiled brats who will not do their job, but instead serve a narrow constiuency who has bribed them into acting foolishly or simply not acting at all in order to fulfill an agenda that works against the majority who voted them into office. This latest BS is beyond belief. It's time to kick these know nothing crooks out of office.

I urge the Senate to protect CFPB from any and all interference by the business community. It is essential that its ability to represent and protect my interests and the rest of the American citizen's is unhampered and it is fully supported by the politicians we elected. I also urge the watchdog organizations to keep good records of any and all votes by the members of the Senate against the best interests of the citizens and make it readily available to the voters on prior to all future election days.

The banks really NEED supervision! At last there is an agency to watch out for the average consumer. Without supervision and consequences for their misdeeds, they will run us into backruptcy, and expect US to bail them out again. There ought to be no such thing as "too big to prosecute!" There is no question that Rich Cordray is qualified for the position. There is no question that under his leadership, the agency has made significant progress in forcing accountability onto those responsible for wrong and risky behavior. Leave your political party affiliation at the door. Do what is right for the average citizen! Do not continue to block his re-nomination to serve a full term.

Dear friends in Congress: We as regular people and consumers need a Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to protect the ethics most assume in financial dealings. Please CONFIRM Rich Cordray and please also stop blocking the will and best interest of the people in these matters. It is so clear that unethical financial practices created the crash and could cause a second one much closer to the last one. So why oppose this?

Dear Republican Senators...you LOST the last election because America rejected your totally selfish ideas. Either get with the plan to help America or GET OUT OF THE WAY! We are disgusted with your constant strategies to obstruct progress, we are tired of you slovenly attachment to your big money bosses. In the next election there will be less of senators who think and act as you do to worry about.

If you don't like the board and its powers, change it through the appropriate processes. Don't do it by playing games with the nominating process and attempting to hide changes to the CFPB from the voting public. There's enough backroom politics already going on in Washington and it's about time that do your jobs in the sunshine.

never in my life have I known of such ignorant people that are in a powerful position. Don't you republicans understand that for every rich wall street person you protect there is millions of voters who are sick of your obstruction. It startyed in the last election and will get worst for you in the next election . YOU will lose more seats in both houses . You work for everyone not just your party or wall street.

Never in my life have I seen, nor has there ever been so far as I know of a congress so obstructive, partisan and unproductive. To the detriment of then entire population of the United States these self serving puppets for the Kochs and other oil and gas pimps have just about done everything in their power to send the country down the drain. It is my fervent hope that all of these creeps get removed in the next cycle. For my part I am running for Mayor of Boulder City NV.

To those Senators we say: It is time to change your position. We need the CFPB to be effective. We urge you to reject the use of the confirmation process - and the filibuster - to undo legislation passed by wide majorities in the House and Senate, signed by the President, and supported by large majorities of the public. The choice before the Senate is simple: allow an up-or-down vote on this nomination, or open the door to more of the slippery financial practices that the CFPB is working hard to prevent. That would be terrible not only for consumers but for responsible lenders and the broader economy

Just because it all works out in the end doesnt make predatory business right. We need the CFPB to have budgeting and staffing to levels which enable it to do its job effectively.

We send a person to jail for having an ounce of marihuana , but ignore the unethical and criminal acts committed by people in the financial arena who cost hundreds of thousands of ordinary citizens their investments, their homes, their jobs, their health care. Clean up the system, instead of benefiting from it!

Enough of obstructionist nonsense, and shame on those Senators who would hold a competent nominee hostage-- especially as a means of leveraging demands that are in fact opposed by the majority of the people and would harm the public interest. It's time for ALL Senators to do their job and allow for an up-or-down vote on Rich Cordray's appointment.

Stop your obstructionism. Maybe, try some job creation legislation to pay down your obsession with the deficit. Do something that the majority of the public endorses and earn your pay.

I have seen some good results already fron this agency. Banks have had to pay restitution for their customers who had their accounts tapped for funds not due the banks, and have in addition had to pay fines. The pain for losing all their ill-gotten gains and a fine in addition, plus the legal fees is the only way banksters are going to understand they have to stop practices that are harmful to their clients.

The middle class of this country has been set up by corrupt politicians who are well compensated by lobbyists to protect corrupt corporations which take unfair advantage of consumers. This is the number one crime in our great country. These senators are in the pockets of these corporations. Consumer Protection was put in place to protect the people from the corrupted politicians who want to be able to control it. Confirm President Obama's choice or be singled out as one of the corrupt politicians.

It is so sad the progressives can't get it fixed and the conservatives want to protect the system for the rich and powerful...So much for "trickle down" Who does Congress work for anyway??? I say where are the jobs the Republicans were supposed to create?...all they know how to do is vote, "NO" and filibuster to bully the rest of Congress...Why do they keep getting elected???....Beats me...beginning to believe they are a bunch of leaches in a 3 piece suit...Why is the burden always on the middle class and the punishment also?...No common sense and totally out of touch...Sometimes I think they are mentally challenged...Golden rule...do unto others as you would have them do unto you...Enough....

Deceptive banking is the main reason millions of Americans lost their jobs and homes. Put these folks in jail where they belong, if anyone else would have done the damage they did we would be in jail. We lose and they stay out of jail.....Please remind me where do we live ??? It's looking less American.. do the rich bankers have their own laws ????????????

When will the Republican/conservative/tea party grow up and realize that the majority of US citizens don't support their extreme agenda. We all lose by this in the short-run and the Republican, used to be responsible party, will lose in the long-run. There will be no loyal opposition as people realize that the Republicans are obstructionist and using gerrymandering so that a minority can hold sway over the wishes of the majority. The Republican party will be not the "dumb" party - the words of Bobby Jindal the Republican governor of Louisiana, it will be the defunct party.

The Senate must recognize the important functions of the CFPB. Yet, some in the minority do not care about protecting consumers from deception, fraud, and abuse. They don't seem to make the connection between a strong, financially healthy middle class and a viable, strong America. Is it lack of understanding? Or are their personal agendas simply far more important to them than the financial strength of the people and nation they were elected to represent?

My pension was cut following the Enron fiasco because the retirement funds had been invested in Enron. My 401k fund was cut in half following the unregulated bank theft that almost collapsed our economy and damaged millions of Americans. Consumers need protection from predator capitalists, and Richard Cordray is the man to lead our needed protection from unethical plutocrats.

The CFPB was long overdue and needs a strong director in order to do its job. Rich Cordray's qualifications and reputation for competence and integrity are beyond dispute. This is a matter of basic justice and fairness in the lives of millions of Americans who work hard, follow the rules and have been abused by greedy financial institutions who think they can write and change the rules as they go along, to benefit themselves at the expense of average people. This is one of a very small number of issues that's most compelling to me as a voter and volunteer.

Some legislators seem to believe in adherence to principle and law only when it serves their objectives. Blocking a qualified nominee just because one doesn't like the legally authorized agency the nominee would lead is an affront to governance. It's like a child throwing a tantrum, but with much more serious consequences. Evidently, like another infamous senator, these guys have no sense of decency--shame on them.

Where is the media in this whole process? I'm "signing" this because it makes sense, but I honestly don't know WHOSE information is opinion based on fear and conjecture, vs fact. Do we have ANY leaders willing to "sacrifice their personal comfort zones" for the will of the The People, or are We, The People, really that stupid? Certainly all my education and real life experience has failed me; I just don't get it.

Yet ANOTHER reason for IMMEDIATE filibuster reform. Is there NOONE, with the exception of Elizabeth Warren, willing to go all the way to "obstruct" the "obstructionists". Who is running this country anyway? DO SOMETHING IMPORTANT. This side-stepping, sneaky maneuvering, and pandering is NOT impressing the voters. It'll take all the fingers and toes I have and more to count all the confirmations and appointments that are being delayed because of this. You and I want enforced gun control laws? Well you've been needing an ATF Director for how many years?

We get something intended "for the people" and the first thing that happens (after refusing to confirm a leader for the bureau) is the insistence that the bureau be dissolved so the Senators that get richer and richer from the bribery of financial institutions can continue to take from the 99% to overflow the coffers of the wealthy.

The U.S. will be brought down by internal corruption; stop corrupt practices in our nation. If business people can not make an honest income without using corrupt and unfair dealings, then there is something wrong with the morality of the capitalist system itself. Why can't the oil and agribusiness make a profit without taxpayer subsidies? Oh, wait, the do make billions and still ask for handouts from taxpayers! If I as an ordinary business owner cheated my customers to make a profit and asked for the taxpayers to subsidize my business, would I get the same treatment as the big corporate banks? If those in the Senate have their own millions of dollars and don't need all the benefits the senators get from taxpayer dollars, then they should not accept special Congressional salary, social security/ retirement, health insurance, nor any other special benefits, like a the exercise facilities and so many more. If they are so conservative and patriotic, let them serve their country by volunteering. That would certainly help the budget. Take the money out of the Congressional compensation, before all the other people who are totally dependent on their jobs in the federal government serving the nation.

To the Senators of Illinois as well as all the rest of the 48 Senators representing the other 49 states and the House of Representatives as well: If there are things that you want to gut in any of the upcoming sessions the Congress as well as the one that will be adjourning for the summer gut your golden parachutes that pay you for the services you render to your constituents that have done nothing but embolden you (Congress), Lobbies, government contractors, the industrial military complex and all other people the make billions of dollars from the exorbitant taxes taking from all the hard working people, small business, taxing retirement funds, giving no quarter when it comes to tax breaks for ordinary citizens and their small bushiness all the while financing the enormous business, such as oil and gas - all energy - with billions of dollars in entitlements (all though they are not called that when for and dealing with big business) paying the Agribusiness to keep their fields from producing crops so people can eat worldwide, quasi bribery condoned by the laws in place now, letting congress people and senatorial individuals come back after a one year hiatus only lobby their old constituents from their old congressional districts and / or states to have laws pass to the detriment of the majority of the people of this country by only benefiting those business that what to increase the cost of their goods and services to the people who need the most help and gutting the people that were once middle class so those in the United States of America with, already, 95% of the wealth could continue with governments blessing to take it all leaving nothing for the things that are making the USA a third world country by creating a caste system by where there is no education, heath and welfare for the people that need if the most and haven't a chance for the American Dream as a result of no dream being left. The CFPB is one of the organizations that will attempt to bring back checks and balances to a system that has become morally and financially bankrupt over the past several years as a result of the puppets, well paid at that, to have laws written so the advantage comes back to the institution that over the past couple decades have only shown their proclivity towards corruption, theft, misuse of monies, fantastic parties, trips, prostitutes, drugs and other malfeasance that has been documented almost culminating in the collapse of this nations financial institutions to the point where by to shore up all that has been stolen the USA has had to borrow enormous amounts of monies from ally's all over the world. From counties friendly or not to the cause that we stand for as a Republic which is Capitalism which has brought the Nations bond ratings down and still these quasi illegal and definitely unethical practices occur on a basis that exceeds what the average American knows about and understands as a result of the obfuscation written into the very bills that are passed to keep this practice alive and well for the benefit of the super well moneyed class that control most of what there is left to control in this country.

The people spoke in November. To those members of Congress who are behaving in the most arrogant, petulant, obstructive and, yes, unpatriotic manner in history....stop! Refusing to allow even discussion of issues to move forward is the action of tyrants. Shame on you. Millions will remember your ideological paranoia and obstructionism for many elections to come.

Stop procrastinating and do your job. Get some work done. Stop the filibustering and reject the use of the confirmation process. We have had enough of your game playing. Earn your pay and get something done. Stop worrying about filling your own pockets with money and letting the rest of us stress and worry and be anxious about how we are going to pay our bills. Director Cordray has been re-nominated to serve a full term. His leadership has won praise from Republicans and Democrats, and from bankers and consumer advocates. And yet, for two years, a group of Senators has held his appointment hostage.. To those Senators we say: It is time to change your position. We need the CFPB to be effective.

Stop fraudulent and abusive bank lending practices. It exiists for a very real reason. Elizabeth Warren would never have been in bed will Wells Fargo Bank and its deceptive bi-weekly mortgage plan cheating millions from consumer while the bank makes millions from the money they are holding while charging interest on the money they have automatically withdrawn.

Its hard to believe that anyone who purports to be 'representing' their district, and ultimately, the American People, would be 'hung up' on the CPFB - that is unless.....(Your choice of negative, nefarious, anti-social, etc. ideas can go here). Its crazy how much effort seems to be needed to get the Congressional Branch of the Government)(particularly the House) to do the right things, even simple things, but ultimately responsible things. What a mess.

The lack of moral fiber in the Republican Party, from wanting to protect Wall Street at the expense of the middle class, for example, is glaring in their refusal to confirm Rich Cordray. This is just one piece of the fundamentally unethical, immoral puzzle which currently defines the Republican Party. They MUST confirm him, and get this agency moving -- to do not what's good for one or the other, but WHAT'S RIGHT. Another puzzle piece is being beholden to NRA money, so that in spite of clear evidence that 90% of Americans support background checks for firearm purchasers, they oppose it. Another example is trying to suppress the vote -- which is not only wrong, but unconstitutional!! When the GOP finally decides that doing right is more important than getting a candidate elected, they'll GET more elected, and over time -- MAYBE -- regain the respect of Americans for their party. In the meantime, CONFIRM RICH CORDRAY! It's the right thing to do! Mrs. Carol B. Akin Stop trying to dam the river. The American people demand these protections and need him to administer the program. Do you really want to prove your uselessness and that you are out of step with the times by blocking this nomination?

Laura Brooks
Santa Barbara, CA 93101
Mar 30, 2013

We dearly need the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, with Richard Cordray as Director, to rectify the gross imbalance of power and information between consumers and financial corporations. I am deeply disappointed that some Republicans appear to endorse a fundamentally imbalanced and unfair economic playing field that makes a mockery of a "free market," to the detriment of individual Americans. A market economy depends on the ability of individuals to make free, fair, and informed decisions in their own interest. The complexity of modern financial products, and the ability of corporate lawyers to write hidden advantages into financial contracts, undermines those basic premises. Just as individuals are not expected to analyze the nutritional content of food, and instead can read an FDA-mandated nutrition label, so too we need the CFPB require comprehensible disclosures and minimum quality standards, and to regulate certain toxic financial products out of the market.

Don't put us back to The Bush financial disaster, it has damaged this country and people greatly. To go back to this would finish us off, is that what the Reps have wanted to do to us all along. Greed will be the death of our great country if we let them have their way with us again!

The Senate is perceived by the people of the US as the biggest bottleneck to progress that a "super majority" of American citizens want, have voted for, and are not about to abandon, any more than we will abandon (or let Congress gut) social security or medicare. Trying to stop the CFPB just shows the true colors, and the true constituency, of the senators who oppose it.

Having been a small business owner I have found, and still do, all the rederick from the right side of the isle out of date; to say the least, it includes many social programs as well as the recent "deficit scare tactic". Even your illustrious leader, the Speaker of the House recently admitted the "D" " .. is not eminent but long term.." with the latter part also falling under the "not true" category. Instead of blocking this renomination, trying to undermine the CFPB, try using your brains and work with it. I'm sure it would benefit many of your constituents; many "red" states do have large population of lower middle class and poor pople. Do'nt forget, you represent them as well. To be a senator is more than just act in a "one way or by personal belief only, manner", and on that basis to cast Yes or NO votes. To reiterate, do'nt forget you represent all of your constituency, republicsans, democrats and independents; rich and poor; the ones who voted for you as well as the ones that did not. If you are a "follower" of your party leaders directions; are you then also honestly representing ALL of your constituency? Honestly??

What we really need is a "Protection Bureau" to protect the people from the callous ideologues who currently disgrace the Senate. The only thing they care about is their reelection and the continuing financial backing of banks, insurance companies, the drug lobby and the oil companies.We need to make it clear to them that they were elected to represent the people, not the monied interests.

This all goes back to 1970 and the William Powell memo to the Chamber of Commerce. The opposition wants no regulations and they don't want a middle class. They have almost succeed after 40+ years with their lobbyest and funders who have bought many of our senators in my opinion, these senators are more beholden to this group than to the citizens who vote for them.

Dear Republicans, You lost the Senate, you lost seats in the House and you lost the popular vote in the presidency and House. It's time to listen to what the American people and dot what your corporate backers want. Keep up your obstructionist ways and you'll loose even more power. Act like the adults you purport to be and not a bunch of spoiled children who take their ball and go home when they don't get their way.

Please! This has gone on long and far enough. We have a sitting president with unpresidented blocking and fillibustering of any & all of his appointees, for no other than partisan warfare. What a shame and embarassment to our country.

From 2004-2008, I owned and managed a loan processing firm that used our own paperless technology that enabled loan brokers to securely check on their files -- and their subordinates -- from anywhere. We saw -- and have records of -- lots of systematically illegal acts. In fact, we had to "fire" our first- and fourth-largest customers because we didn't think we'd look good in prison orange. Why didn't anyone get back to my firm, and ask for the records, for prosecution? It would have been SO EASY! We need the CFPB, as well as more aggressive Federal pursuit and prosecutions!

I'm really tired of having a small group disrupt everything. Our government is broken and needs fixing. I put up with a lot of right wing shenanigans when Bush was non-elected president, because that's the way our so-called democracy functions, allowing the elections "results" to decide over guns and grandstanding. But this does not seem to be the way of things in our government any more. Please help to change this so that we can have true democracy, the will of the people being heard.

For a few Senators to misuse the confirmation process to complain about and impede the execution of a law that they themselves previously passed is absurd and is frankly should be a violation of the separation of powers and illegal. The law is the law until Congress changes it and must be faithfully carried out until then.

Since most of our laws now favor coroporations over people, this is one of the few strong protections we have left. Campaign finances aside, you are here to represent the people, not the corporations - despite the clear bias of 5 of our 9 supreme court justices. Please, do the right thing and make sure consumer protection stays strong, and gets stronger.

I'm sick of pols whose only concern is gaining reelection money from big business and the wealthy. It should be unimaginable that leaders would spit in the eye of the American people. But that is exactly what these cynical and self serving Republicans are doing by blocking Cordray's re-nomination. Shame on them. You must work to stop Washington's decaying, cynical "business as usual" mentality. Stop this group. -- Then get busy on campaign finance reform. As you know, the corruption and cynicism caused by campaign money has rendered our government practically useless. At this point how can we even say we live in a democracy? The people are being left entirely out of the equation. Stop the corruption. Stop the cynicism. Stop the cabal that hopes to bury the CFPB.

Vote up or down for to confirm Riich Cordray as head of the Consumr Financial Protection Bureau. If you are or have been among the 40-some senators who have held up the vote, then get off that pony. You are there to approve or disapprove and serve the public weal -- not play political gamesmanship. 2014 is just next year; the next senatorial election will be right on its heels. And my memory when I get into the voting booth is pretty long.

The choice before the Senate is simple: allow an up-or-down vote on this nomination, or open the door to more of the slippery financial practices that the CFPB is working hard to prevent. That would be terrible not only for consumers but for responsible lenders and the broader economy.

Perhaps Americans need to beware of senators who are attempting to undermine rights belonging to the people. It seems to me this group of Republicans is attempting to create a larger separation between all classes. Leaving little to share if you are not one of the top10 % earners. Your greed is appalling .

We are very tired .. no SICK and tired ... of our supposed "representatives" voting based entirely upon their ideology and ignoring what is best for our Nation and what is needed to protect all working citizens. It is time to put get this Bureau up and running, then IF they don't like the direction, they make adjustments to its 'charter'.

We, the consumers of this country, need protection from the predatory practices of corporate and banking businesses whose only goal is to make money by any means. They change the terms of credit agreements to suit their ability to raise our rates for NO good reason except to keep their CEO's making wages of 100's of times more than the average worker in this country. Well, the average worker in this country needs an advocate to look after our interests also. Any one trying to either gut this agency or trying to negate the good it has done, needs to be voted out on the next election cycle.

I am sick of the corrupt Congressional cronies of the financial/banking coporatocracy who are obstructing the effectiveness of the CFPB, which is one of the only useful checks against the egregious abuses of the wealthy "elite" who have almost destroyed our economy and have truly destroyed the well-being of millions of Americans. I say to you: Either do something constructive or get the heck out of the way! America is watching you, and if you continue to pander to your wealthiest, most corrupt, corporate constituents, Judgment Day will not be far off for you -- it will arrive when you are next faced with attempting to get re-elected. We The People are WATCHING! And we VOTE!

The Senators who are blocking this nomination are clearly representing the very large corporations who want a free pass to avoid any and all accountability for continuing to steal from consumers and to continue violating the rights of consumers. This is shameful. The corporations did not elect them. They were elected to represent the people. It is long past time to insist that they do the job they were elected to do - to serve the people in public office.

Elizabeth Warren: "Never before in American history has a minority in the Senate blocked a nominee to try to get changes in a law they don't like and don't have the votes to change." She's talking about the 43 Senators who have threatened to block Rich Cordray's re-nomination as director. They don't question his qualifications; their grievance is with the CFPB itself. "Blocking Rich Cordray is about weakening the agency," says Warren. It's "about keeping the game rigged" so "consumers remain in the dark -- and a few bad actors can rake in big profits." That's why I signed a petition to The United States Senate.

You did the right thing regarding gay marriage after waiting two years (political considerations no doubt), now it's time to start governing, stop politicking and start acting like an adult. I'm so sick of the politics. Many of you are like children who become miffed or something and want to take their ball home and quit playing. GROW UP! I am sick of the game playing you congressional members play to circumvent the law. Stop ruining good people's names and reputations to get your own way. If your ideas are good the American public will support you. That us the democracy in practice. Majority rules. Otherwise it is treasonous to the United States of America as far as I am concerned and I am fed up with all if you carry working and doing your jobs or get out and find a real job. You might find out you have a different attitude.

NJ's Senators proudly support Cordray's nomination. If Sen. Reid hadn't been such a wimp, perhaps nomination-blocking tactics could have been prevented along with filibusters. But Reid isn't Lautenberg or Menendez. On the other hand, if this drags on long enough, Elizabeth Warren may be elected POTUS and have the political capital to ram certain appointments through the Senate. Incidentally, HOW MANY judgeships and other POTUS appointments are currently vacant due to Republican obstructionism? Several hundred?

Confirm Richard Cordray. If the harm done by the CFPB is so great, then write a bill that addresses that harm. Use the legislative process that you were elected to use, not the obstructive process that angers us voters.

When a minority holds the majority hostage... and gets away with it over and over... something is very, very wrong. Democracy is about the vote of the majority to govern, not the minority to stop our country from moving forward.

I feel much more strongly about this than signing a petition indicates. I am also writing a letter because it's Saturday and the offices are closed. This message is particular to Senator Kirk (whom I admire and wish him the best with his difficult but successful recovery). Look upon it as a biological ecosystem where the native plants and animals are being squeezed out by large, invasive species who have no effective predators.

When will the rich senators and congressmen and women stand up for the little guy? When will the corporate money ever be defied? CONSUMER protection is protection of AMERICANS. Shame on the Congress, and I am sure the Grand OLD Party is a central culprit, for not creating a Consumer Financial Protection Bureau with teeth.
