May 21, 2015

Dear Senator:

On behalf of Americans for Financial Reform we are writing to express our opposition to Senator Toomey's Amendment 8, offered by Senator Toomey to Senator Shelby's regulatory reform bill scheduled for mark-up on May 21.

The amendment would increase from $10 billion to $50 billion the asset threshold for "large banks" that are subject to supervision by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB). The CFPB exists to address consumer financial fraud and abuse by the financial industry. the Dodd-Frank Act granted the CFPB supervisory authority over the very largest depository institutions in the United States in order to ensure that consumer interests were not overlooked in the regulation of the largest banks.

CFPB examiners' efforts are urgently needed at our largest banks. The CFPB has supervisory authority over institutions with over $10 billion in assets; this includes 112 depository institutions<sup>1</sup> that hold $12.5 trillion in total assets, or more than 80 percent of the banking industry's assets.<sup>2</sup> This bill proposes to remove banks with between $10 and $50 billion in assets from CFPB supervision, leaving the CFPB with supervisory authority over only 38 banks, and exempting two-thirds of the banks the CFPB currently supervises and 99% of all banks in the U.S. The assets held by the 74 banks that this legislation would remove from CFPB supervision total well over $1 trillion.

Over 98% of U.S banks and credit unions have less than $10 billion in assets, and are supervised for compliance with consumer laws by their prudential regulator. Banks over $10 billion that are supervised by the CFPB are not small banks, and are certainly not community banks. Over 99.5% of community banks have fewer than $5 billion in assets, and these banks hold 94% of community banking assets.<sup>3</sup>

We urge you to oppose this amendment. Ending CFPB supervision of banks with assets over $10 billion would reduce the agency's ability to effectively oversee the banking industry. The Bureau's examination process is uniquely effective at both ensuring that banks are complying with laws, and detecting and assessing risks to both individual consumers and broader consumer financial markets. The agency's ability to hold banks accountable for compliance with consumer financial laws is creating a more fair and transparent marketplace for consumers, and will create a better environment for the honest businesses that serve them.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
