

To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Egregious Wall Street practices involving the sale of derivatives to public entities played an important contributing role in the three largest municipal bankruptcy filings ever – by Orange County, California; Jefferson County, Alabama; and the city of Detroit. Many more cities and other public entities like school districts were caught up in predatory municipal finance deals prior to the 2008 crisis – bad deals that public entities are still paying the price for.

The SEC previously found that there was vast misrepresentation in the auction rate securities market. There is strong evidence that similar misrepresentations happened in municipal finance deals, and that Wall Street banks violated their duties to deal fairly with public entities. We call on the SEC to investigate these deals, and to take action to get cities and school districts money back where Wall Street broke the law.

Sincerely,

Petition signatories: SEC: Investigate the Toxic Wall St. Deals Squeezing Our Cities
