It is imperative that we issue rules to protect the working men and women in this country. There have been too many games, some of which are truly illegal with financial institutions across this country and the general population has become so skeptical because of the underhandedness and greed of these financial advisers and institutions. Please do the right thing and protect the retirees in our country. It is common sense to do this and it will be for the common good.

This is critically important. Right now it is very difficult to find a financial advisor or broker who serves the client's interest first. And it makes a big difference to individual investors, to working people who are doing their best to save, create future security, educate their children, start businesses. You could make a very positive impact on this country by putting in place - and strongly enforcing- a law requiring the financial advisors and brokers to act first for the benefit of the client.

Amen to taking such a strong leadership step in protecting Senior and others who work hard to prepare for retirement. It is hard to know whom to trust these days! A regular pension seemed more dependable in it's day.

My father is 74 years old and is financially unstable. I don't live in the same town as he does and I am constantly hearing about how some business owners take advantage of his age. It saddens me to no end. A financial advisor would be the help that my brother and I are longing for him to have.

Most of us already assumed that our financial advisors were operating with our best interest in mind. It's disconcerting to realize that under current law, they do not have that legal responsibility. I support President Obama's and Senator Warren's call for making it a legal responsibility of financial advisors and institutions to act according to the best interests of their clients.

I strongly support new rules that would require financial advisors to act in the best interest of their customers. They must not be allowed to shift investments that will benefit the advisors more than the funds they advise or manage or be allowed to churn accounts to increase brokers fees. A corollary to this is SOCIAL SECURITY MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO BE PRIVATIZED. The sums in Social Security are an invitation to abuse by funds, fund managers, and brokers.

“If you go out into the real world, you cannot miss seeing that the poor are poor not because they are untrained or illiterate but because they cannot retain the returns of their labor. They have no control over capital, and it is the ability to control capital that gives people the power to rise out of poverty.” Muhammad Yunus "If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property until their children wake up homeless on the continent their Fathers conquered." - Thomas Jefferson "All men would then be necessarily equal, if they were without needs. It is the poverty connected with our species which subordinates one man to another. It is not inequality which is the real misfortune, it is dependence." - Voltaire "Where justice is denied, where poverty is enforced, where ignorance prevails, and where any one class is made to feel that society is an organized conspiracy to oppress, rob and degrade them, neither persons nor property will be safe." - Frederick Douglass “The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little.” Franklin D. Roosevelt "If we condone political theft, our civilization itself cannot endure." - Theodore Roosevelt "All that is valuable in human society depends upon the opportunity for development accorded the individual." "We shall require a substantially new manner of thinking if mankind is to survive." - Albert Einstein "Not to know what has been transacted in former times is to be always a child. If no use is made of the labors of past ages, the world must remain always in the infancy of knowledge." - Cicero "The world is very different now. For man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty, and all forms of human life." - John F. Kennedy In a country well governed, poverty is something to be ashamed of. In a country badly governed, wealth is something to be ashamed of. Confucius “Every life deserves a certain amount of dignity, no matter how poor or damaged the shell that carries it.” Rick Bragg “It is too difficult to think nobly when one thinks only of earning a living.” Jean-Jacques Rousseau “Of all the preposterous assumptions of humanity over humanity, nothing exceeds most of the criticisms made on the habits of the poor by the well-housed, well-warmed, and well-fed.” Herman Melville “Once poverty is gone, we'll need to build museums to display its horrors to future generations. They'll wonder why poverty continued so long in human society - how a few people could live in luxury while billions dwelt in misery, deprivation and despair.” Muhammad Yunus

Sounds like an ethical practice that should have already be enforced. Every other business practices this. They're in business to provide the best customer service to their clients , they should be serving the interests of their paying clients who are expecting these individuals to represent their best financial investment interest not that of company's. The client should expect that what they're paying for is investments that are for their retirement financial gain. Not financing a company to profit from the financial gains they obtain from their customers retirement accounts by mismanaging these accounts to profit themselves. These companys are being paid to represent their clients best interests and if not, then they're committing fraud. Plain and simple!

I have worked for over 37-years for the State of KS. And now my retirement. And Gov Brownback is trying to take my hard earned money out of my hand. I have had to returned back to the workforce. I support whatever, Sen Warren and my President. I don't support the Republican party cause they have had to work hard. They all inherit their wealth. So how would they know how hard everyday Americans lived. Thank you for all that you do. I lived in a small rural community Parsons, Ks. KEEP FIGHTING for us.

Guys please sign this! This program is super helpful and important to the development of young children and babies in kansas and helps give first time parents the tools to help their babies be on track with necessary development and learning; if not ahead of other children when they enter kindergarten. My mom has been working with this program for 8 years now and we have seen first hand how much of a difference it makes. The program workers also act as social workers and can provide parents with important information to help with any issue and do free ASQs at least once a year with free hearing and vision screenings. This program makes a HUGE impact in the latino comunity in the City of Olathe, KS Government and in the Olathe District Schools.

It's testament to the failure of the financial sector to properly serve the overall economic system that we're forced to require this of financial advisers. This is a step in the right direction toward settin things right.

It's foul enough when giant corporations can legally buy votes, thanks to the current US Supreme Court's decision; it is downright offensive when a person hires someone to help with strategic planning for retirement, college, etc., and the person is not bound by personal ethics, much less binding rules, to act in the best interest of his clients. This person is supposed to represent his client and be compensated for his work, not for his own, self-serving extra-curricular financial gain.

This is a very important issue to every segment of our country. Good people are trying their best to save for retirement and whether they are family members or the neighbor across the street, it's a huge benefit to all segments of society to support this legislative effort to remove conflicts of interest from financial advisors.

Americans have experienced what happens when financial institutions were allowed to act in their own best interest & it wasn't good. Greed seldom is. Financial advisors should be held to the same higher standards of doctors, pharmacists, lawyers, engineers, and other professionals who are trusted to earn money for their services.

I am SICK of the greed that is running this country. And why is it that banks get to charge outrageous interest rates when we borrow from them, but when they are using OUR money, they pay us a pittance in interest?????? My bank blames it on the government setting the rates that they can pay us. .0001 interest. REALLY?????? Yet they can charge US up to 25% and up?????? No wonder the rich get richer and the rest of us are not.

People work for years and deserve the retirement they worked for. They are trying to take some of that away so wealthy companies can get wealthier and increase their profit margin. It is not right. We also need to protect government and military pensions for new retirees I am a military retiree and am very thankful for what I get for my years of service and understand what the younger ones working toward that are dealing with now. They want to give lump sums... Nonsense. Americas retirees private and government need a decent retirement that must not be stripped for more profits at their expense. We must also protect social security in the legacy and spirit of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Do the right thing by Americans.

I agree with this statement, and yes, if president obama met with sen. Warren i would like more information concerning this matter. As of now, workers have to trust the provider their employer chose, is that in the best interest of the employee?...depends on the integrity of the company, n the intergrity of the investment firm thry chose?...is this a diservice to the employee...with no other info, than a quarterly statement?...

My mom has had a financial advisor who so poorly advised her that her savings she worked so hard to save as a secretary earning 30k/year went down so low he obviously neglected her account. She has alzheimers and can't afford a nursing home now. Thanks to that financial planner she now has to live with us. These planners need more stringent restrictions so this doesn't happen to someone else!

My last financial advisor made sure she got paid as soon as I retired and rolled over my 401K! She sold dividend paying stocks in order to buy $200K of mutual funds that paid her a bonus!!!! I found out much too late, and because she didn't have to disclose what she was doing, she made out better than I did for over 3 years! That's not right!!!! Demand that these thieves take care of retirees, and not themselves first!!!!

The SEC should extend the fiduciary duty to include brokers, rather than only advisors regulated by the 1940 Act. The higher standard of fiduciary duty, vs the lower standard of suitability, is the right thing to do. Dodd-Frank authorized the SEC to take this fair and important step.

Wall Street doesn't need to steal their customer's retirement security!!! If it weren't for the customers, there would be NO MONEY in the banks anyways! Stop being selfish, and think of the people(for a change) that help keep the banks open in the first place!!!!!! How would you all feel if the customers took every bit of their money out of the banks?Who would suffer then? Banks would go crazy trying to get their previous customers back, so your bank would be tops!

Doesn't just make common sense that financial advisers act in the interest of their customers. It should be a win win situation, not one of betrayal. Just do the right thing. Imagine if lawyers and doctors were acting to make money first and serve their clients second or third. It sounds ludicrous. So does having financial advisors working against the interest of their clients. Stop the legalization of betrayal. Thank you, Ron D'Addario

I am a Veteran, Active Voter and TaxPayer. As a Veteran I put my life on the line for Democracy. This missive is Democracy in action. Please help stop the plutocratic take over and save American Democracy and the middle class. Re-instating the Glass-Steagall Act is a good place to begin. When I was a mortgage banker I sure was required to work for my customer's best financial interest. It's head-slappingly obvious that all professionals working in banking, investments, and related fields should feel honor bound to do the same; if the law even needs to explicitly state this, then it is a sad state of affairs.

Your notions about who is looking after who's interests, especially in retirement programs, is spot on. Most employees are totally unaware about their retirement funds. Frequently they are put into programs with high expenses and possibly not in the employees' best interest, as you say. The employee is an easy target for upper management who can cut deals with financial advisors, so called, with no one ever being the wiser. Why would anyone ever deal with anyone other than Vanguard or Fidelity? low fees, people on your side. What is not to like. Thanks for taking my call.

Claims that these new regs will limit access to certain investment options begs a simple question: what kinds of investment options would be excluded simply because they're not designed to benefit the individual investor? And if not the individual investor, then who do these instruments benefit?

The need for such a requirement should not exist. Clients are paying, sometimes a lot of money, to advisers; thus, in order to perform according to the rules of that contract, the latter group's focus must be entirely on the well-being of the former. The fact that this is routinely not the case is a disgrace. The free-market defense is nothing more than a pathetic excuse for the predatory status quo. The financial industry constantly informs us how complex these matters are, and thus, we require them to guide us across this dangerous minefield. If so, how are we supposed to be able, prior to stepping on one of those mines, be able to know our counselors are not acting in our interest? Though not surprising, it is still a disgrace that the Labor Dept. must issue these instructions.

I had money I had saved over a 10 year period in a money market fund that my adviser had told me to invest in. I LOST money over the next decade and had LESS than what I started with. I called my adviser recently and told him I wanted to use that money to buy stocks in a VERY successful and long established high-tech firm. He tried to TALK ME OUT OF IT!! I didn't listen, and since then, I my account has grown to about the amount it should have been a few years ago!! There's your PROOF that these advisers are only OUT FOR THEMSELVES!!!! by the way, I am a conservative investor and have other accounts, so I knew I wasn't taking a huge risk.

It is unfortunate that life in the U.S. Has come to this point wherein we cannot trust financial advisors, whom we are paying for this service, need to be ordered by the government to act in ir interest. I don't know if congress can be brave enough to do so. I hope they will think of their own parents, children and friends and support this.

This is long overdue. The selfish and irresponsible acts have undermined the very foundation of our country. The lives of millions of Americans, including myself, are STILL feeling the affects of Wall Streets reckless behavior. Countless lives have ruined by the greed of these unscrupulous companies. This government must starting putting regulations in place, as time and again, big banks and financial advisors have been proven untrustworthy!

Already, there are hidden fees and skimming of profits in mutual funds so that the funds can operate with profit. But, the middle man needs to be clear as to how they profit. We know they do profit, but it needs to be disclosed.

I worked for major financial firm, and I saw the squeeze on the advisors to generate points (fees charged) and products coming recommended according to how much income these financial products generate in fees for the firm. Who are they representing first? I also saw how fees kept 529 at same amount 10 years later due to fees... We don't need to make Wall street any richer, there should be a balance.

To our representatives: I attended The Home Birth of a Dear friend and will always remember how special it was for her and their family as well as me. My friend was also at my Home Birth and we have the sacred bond of her being the one to "catch" my 9 pound baby boy! Our families feel so fortunate to have had Superb Quality care before, during ,and after, our Birthing experiences! As our Pediatrician was always supportive and involved in our families well being and came for a "Home Visit" after each birth! Certain to ensure the health of each was PERFECT! Also, in the year of 1991-1992 My third son and I were interviewed and featured in the Health section of the "Baltimore Sun Paper" for Our Home Birth experience. Truly, Our Home Births were so beautiful! We were very well educated by our midwives for each of the births, and we had the people with us that made our births most beautiful! I feel so fortunate to have had my Mother beside me during those times, especially now as she has passed away suddenly, 4 years ago, age 74. Also Breastfeeding came so easily at home (as with the opposite, per Hospital) Please, Honor, "OUR Right" to Birthing," Our Choose" "Our Children" We are healthier for our chooses!

To our representatives: I attended The Home Birth of a Dear friend and will always remember how special it was for her and their family as well as me. My friend was also at my Home Birth and we have the sacred bond of her being the one to "catch" my 9 pound baby boy! Our families feel so fortunate to have had Superb Quality care before, during ,and after, our Birthing experiences! As our Pediatrician was always supportive and involved in our families well being and came for a "Home Visit" after each birth! Certain to ensure the health of each was PERFECT! Also, in the year of 1991-1992 My third son and I were interviewed and featured in the Health section of the "Baltimore Sun Paper" for Our Home Birth experience. Truly, Our Home Births were so beautiful! We were very well educated by our midwives for each of the births, and we had the people with us that made our births most beautiful! I feel so fortunate to have had my Mother beside me during those times, especially now as she has passed away suddenly, 4 years ago, age 74. Also Breastfeeding came so easily at home (as with the opposite, per Hospital) Please, Honor, "OUR Right" to Birthing," Our Choose" "Our Children" We are healthier for our chooses!

Retirement accounts are critical for people to be able to have a comfortable financial future. There are too many ways for "financial advisors" to conduct scams. Stronger laws will prevent unethical financial advisors from taking advantage of people.

This should be an unquestionable duty of those handling retirees finances! Allowing them the ability to do otherwise is unethical and unconscionable! They can destroy peoples lives. Some financial advisors will make moral choices, but many will not. It is an incredulous that this country allows them to work against the clients' best interests and make money while doing so!

Financial Advisors should do what is in the best interest of their clients, not their Company or person gain. However, doing what is in the best interest of the people, needs to start with Congress. If they do t start showing a spirit if cooperation and doing what is best for this nation vs self interest, we are going to fail as a nation. This is already happening.

The American dream has morphed into an American nightmare. Our government is not "by the people, of the people and for the people" any longer (if it ever has been). Our schools should teach morals and ethics; citizenship and social responsibility. What ever happened to the boyscout code of honor to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth"? If the Titanic were to sink today, does any one believe that the women and children would be the first to get off before it goes to the bottom?

The hard working American people must be protected against the big banking interest who are preying on our lack of financial sophistication to cheat us out of our hard-earned money. Who can do this for us than our elected officials, but wait, most of them have already been bought off by the same big Banks. Help us Sen. Warren and the overdue real President Obama! Email

Requiring financial ADVISORS to act in the best interest of their clients seems like something that they would just do anyway. What a pity that they've gotten to the point that it must be required of them, since they don't seem to have the moral compass to do it on their own. I strongly urge you to support this common-sense legislation.

Between the Dot Com meltdown and the 2008 Economic Downturn, my retirement account lost half of its value based on advice of licensed advisers. They pocketed commissions for the "churn" to move assets around, but didn't protect my interests. What is really sad is that I called a halt to their activities and only lost half the value. I know many more who lost darn near everything. These self seeking and unethical practices have to stop.

This is so critical! I can't understand why this isn't already a part of the law! Why should financial advisers be permitted to put their own interests before those of their clients? We are put in the position of trusting them, as we would trust anyone who possesses expertise which we do not -- and then we have to abide by the consequences. It is just common sense that the way things are currently set up is completely unjust!

I hope the American people can see how this president has always worked for the people from the beginning of presidency and continues to do so. Contrary to what Romney declares, businesses are NOT people. Unfortunately, our Supreme Court seems to think so. What happened to a government OF the people and FOR the people? There's no other government in this world that is as fair to its people as this one. But there are those who are picking at the very fabric and threads of this strength that holds this country together. We have to open our eyes and make sure that our rights don't become a thing of the past.

I support all efforts directed at the development of rules structured to strongly direct Wall Street's financial activities. Such rules must also be backed by the passage of laws that govern those rules and the these laws must be supported by the work of an even stronger Consumer Protection Agency with power to enforce both these stronger laws and rules. Financial white collar crimes deserve punishment worthy of criminal imprisonment sentence.

My elderly parents were convinced by their financial adviser to convert investment earnings to an annuity which resulted in significant tax liability for them and which annuity, when my father reached age 90, had to be redeemed at further tax charge to him. None of these considerations was revealed by their adviser, who clearly touted this move for his own advantage and to their detriment.

As a fairly new retiree, I feel strongly that fellow retirees and I would benefit greatly from this kind of protection. Most Americans are not knowledgeable enough about finances and what we don't know makes us susceptible to making mistakes we can't afford and/or to being misled. Please support retirement security for Americans by issuing these rules. Thank you.

I don't have money hidden off-shore or under my mattress. All I have for end-of-life (which isn't much—only 5 figures), is vulnerable to mistakes of greed by financial advisors. Please protect my interests over the interests of those who are being paid to look out for mine.

This should be a "no brainer" but apparently its not. Physicians take or used to take an oath to "do no harm." This it seems to me is aligned with that kind of purpose - to clarify the fundamental value that financial people are supposed to provide to their clients. Please do the right thing here.

They are a bunch of crooks and con men who operate under false pretense and misleading advertising that implies and assures financial security and a level of care and responsibility that they have no incentive to provide. The system is rigged to favor the investment "banks" at the expense of the little guy or "whale". Only new rules along these lines might help shape and change the "system" and "culture", perhaps restoring some level of confidence in to our financial system.

What could make more sense than requiring a fiduciary responsibility of a financial advisor toward their client? Even Real Estate sales agents are sworn to protect the interests of their clients ahead of their own. I would have thought that ANYONE dealing in the financial market on behalf of someone else would already have a fiduciary responsibility toward their client. What took so long?!!!

All who cheered at zionist nut and yahoo's speech yesterday are the enemy of mankind. Day 489 of the billionaire investment club called the CFR, global theft and usurpation of all legal world governments called agenda 21. Full implementation, contamination of all soil with flight access of their US airforce 24/7, of monsanto's glyphosate, aluminum phosphate strontium and barrium. These were all patented and patents purchased by monsanto in 2012 after they had created their new aluminum resistant gmo substance. Their investment plan, monopoly, to make no other source of food available to anyone anywhere other than purchased through them. This fit in with the parent rothschild-getty long range plan of murdering 93% of humanity by 2025. Slowly filling their fake medical/poison facillities with respiratory and lymphatic ailments from the spraying. They have already achieved the goal of 1 in 4 humans being made autistic by a combination of vaccines, glyphosate/round-up and aspartaine. These insane german surnamed zionist genocide directives must be moved to the insane asylum by the worlds sheriff's and all involved arrested, or they have failed their sworn duty. The weather of this planet is not for ownership theft or sale to by and from the rothschild-getty inbred german zionist oligarchy. No being has the right to damage, threaten or murder another. All adherents to any group or religion which condones or promotes, murder and theft of others must be institutionalized, regardless of cost. This can be stopped by making a phone call, to your rep and senator regularly demanding this be stopped. Attention all Congress People You are duly Notified To, 1. Arrest all dual passport holders in the US Congress for espionage, 2. Halt all Air-Force spraying of monsanto's aluminum powder. 3. Arrest and remove from office all who seek to modify our Constitution in any manner. 4. Abolish the CFR, arrest all its members for conspiracy, espionage and tax evasion. 5. Arrest all at the CFR's creations, the IMF, UN and CIA for operating under an illegal charter, a treasonous offense, only sovereign nations can be granted a charter, not groups, clubs, or people. 6. Remove the president from office and charge him with being a spy., under the UCMJ at 906.106 and a traitor under 18 USC, Part 1, Chapter 115, Sec.2381. militia secure our border.

Corporate decisions regarding pensions and conservative attacks on Social Security require us to put money in the stock market, but most of us don't have the training to handle investment decisions, putting us at the mercy of financial advisers, with no protection or assurance that they are actually helping us instead of helping themselves to our hard-earned money. It's time to require fiduciary responsibility from people who handle other people's money.

YES! You would THINK that we would not have to make RULES for financial advisers to act in the best interests of their CLIENTS! But evidently we DO have to make rules to force (require) financial advisers to be honest, and act in their clients' best interests. So let's get the regulations in place!

All financial advisors need to inform us of their fiduciary commitment. Since their credential alphabet soup is so confusing, we need some system. Even my long-time bank forced me to talk with their "financial advisor" before I could open a Roth CD. My 94 year old mother has lost thousands to an advisor who has preyed upon her for 20 years and continues to do so. I am considering contacting a fiduciary, but I don't know if I can trust him either. We need help.

I am concerned about our nest-egg and if will carry us through our retirement. We still can't get our home refinanced, it's value cut in half. I hope the same doesn't occur with our limited retirement investments.

I started saving when I was 30yrs old low investment & boy, is it low. I think Wall Street has enough money & has made enough money off middle-class Americans. I knew when they first introduced investing in Wall Street it was a huge scam on The American People ;you see my Father B;1911-D;1988; explained The 1929 Crash, The Depression, Social Security & he said none would ever happen again, because our country had learned a hard lesson. He also was a solid Democrat his entire life. And did believe in trickle down economics. Tool & Die Maker. He had a retirement from his Employer & Social Security. Thank-you.

Maybe I was wrong to trust my financial advisor. This country is corrupt in every way. It's all about the money. Let me say one thing to Congress, and particularly the Republicans. I had a friend lose over 100,000 , thru an investor , that didn't BOTHER to tell him , my friend happened to call his broker to find out how his money was doing . Then he found out about his losses , BUT only after the investor , had cashed his commission checks, on the bad deals he had done to my friend .

My husband's retirement was basically stolen by the company that his money was with. Even when the market went up his account continued to go down. It wasn't until later that he discovered all the fees being taken out that he was not told about and they were not mentioned in his account statements. It truly is theft and needs to be stopped. We cannot enjoy retirement, we have no money to do anything now but hopefully someone else can benefit if the right thing is done and Wall Street has to actually follow regulations.

This is America where according to Republicans we don't need government regulations, Americans look out for Americans. Once again we've found that to not be the case. When someone can profit they will, regardless of the suffering they cause others. Will the wealthy ever care about anything other than themselves? Again they've proven they won't, so this legislation is critical. Please help look out for us, we don't have the money to line your coffers the way the Koch's can but we care about each other more than they'll ever understand.

With the push to require us to save for our own retirements, the moves to privatize everything, it is paramount to protect savings and investments of We The People (this excludes corporations who are NOT people but use We The People for profit). I have experienced a financial advisor who encouraged me to invest in companies that whose practices I oppose because "that's where the money is". To me, this is unethical and not in my best interests. The proposed requirement is a step in the right direction to act in our best interests .

This is a strange thing to need a rule about. You would assume a financial advisor would naturally have the best interest of clients at heart but experience shows they often do not. The fact that we do need this rule shows how very much it's needed.

Now that pensions are few and far between and workeres are on their own to build a retirement and Governors are putting public pensions at risk with politically connectd financial advisors/hedge funds etc. It is critical that financial advisors/consultants be legally bound to represent the interest if the client above all else and be liable and accountable if they fail in that duty.

The elderly have worked their whole life for the Golden Years when they can sit back and enjoy the nest egg they worked so hard for. Don't let greedy politicians who wish to use retirees' social security to invest in wall street, where their money will be lost in the gambling that it truly is. Social Security is perfectly fine if left alone. Don't touch Social Security, because if it isn't broke, then don't fix it!!!!

My wife's financial advisor, who serves starving artists, moved to a firm that earns its money by commission on sales of financial products, rather than a flat fee. That raises conflict-of-interest questions, which I hope Department of Labor rules will prevent. Thanks and have a nice day.

This rule change is imperative; but don't lose sight of the fact that if workers' wages weren't stagnant over the last 30 years, we just might have some money saved for retirement. Most workers don't earn enough to live, let alone save for retirement. Again, the wage earners get squeezed.

I turned my retirement account over to a professional after I had managed it to double in value and then to crash to 80% of what I had before I started. They did OK for a year or two, then as my holdings sank like a stone they did nothing. I finally called them and asked "why are you selling X, Y, Z? They were like, OK. I realized I could do as good as those guys and took it back. My point being, they weren't even paying attention to my account. Irresponsible.

It is unconscionable that we have to make (and enforce) a LAW to require financial advisers to act in the best interest of their customers. When will it become the nature of humans to act in love, for the well-being of all? Do we still not understand that to promote the good of others naturally promotes good for ourselves--and that to do harm will always, in some way, cause harm to ourselves?

Our multiple financial advisors actually COST us when they advised us. We escaped that costly relationship by learning how to manage our own investments. Not everyone can do that. And everyone should be protected from the way financial advisors often skim the clients accounts by selling them products that profit only the advisor. PLease put a stop to that practice.

This is the LEAST the financial industry can do, in light of their central role in the Great Recession. There are millions of us--many millions--who continue to suffer from that crisis. I know they fund most of your campaigns, and I'm plenty angry about that, but I'm asking you to simply not get in the way of Senator Warren's reasonable attempt to mitigate a small amount of that suffering. Please, this time, support something that will actually help a significant number of us out here. Thank you.

I have been working hard since age 15, more than 40 years, have invested my money in several financial institutions; I deserve to know that they are acting in my best interest for retirement. Good stewardship is a no brainer, that someone would not act accordingly, is unethical, and poor management for the financial future of our nation!!

I beg Elizabeth Warren to run so that I would be able to vote once again with a party that has some possibility to win. i did not vote with Obama the first time because I disagreed with his surge going into Afghanistan while the second time I was even more against the overthrowing of the Libyan government. I hope I have the opportunity to vote for senator Warren.

Since more people have no money invested it's more important to protect and increase ssi and ssdi to make up for the robbing of the American people's retirement funds. Now that we've got corporate America making everthing toxic and making people sick with toxic food, air, water, medicine psychological manipulation through mass media, they should take those names of the offshore tax havens they've uncovered and take the full taxes owed and put it into paying for Healthcare for those baby boomers and elderly whom have sickness forced on them by the very people whom are hiding their profits from perpetrating this on the world community.

I find it hilarious and tragic that financial advisors are not ALREADY required to act in their clients' best interest. Can you imagine other professions without the same rule? A lawyer who doesn't advocate for their client? A car mechanic who fixes non-existent problems? A doctor who recommends unnecessary, expensive, dangerous procedures? Those are all already illegal, just as false financial advising should be.

I am for these new rules. Advisers could be paid a flat fee per dollar amount of the investment instead of a percentage that varies by incentives held out to the advisor by the investment company when they are pushing one instrument over another. The client is never told that the advisor gets a bonus for selling a certain investment over another. High time investors get all the facts and can make a decision intelligently in their own interest.

Republicans do not care about the welfare of most of the citizens of this country. They care only about the welfare of the rich and they care about lining their own pockets. They would deny health care to those who need it but can't afford it. They protect the rich but do not care if others are scammed and put in financial ruin. They then have the absolute nerve to call themselves Christian. It seems to me that Christ drove the moneychangers out of the temples!

My wife invested into a retirement account and told them that she wanted a safe investment. After investing over $3600 over 3 years her account was worth about $600. The person from Smith Barney said keep sending $100 a month and it should get better, I told her to get out because the account was losing about $130 a month. these loses are not taxes deductible.

Finally, a step in the right direction. You know, Germany didn't get slammed like the rest of the world. Shouldn't everyone ask "Why?" To all "elected" officials, remember you are not royalty, and you are not above me, my wife, the guy down the street. We are all equal. The CEOs and Banks who want to gamble, need to go to Vegas - not Wall St.

This is a great start to the total financial reform this country needs. Capitalism is great and certainly necessary, but the extent of greed that has come alive in today's age is out of control. People are suffering more than ever yet we keep outsourcing millions of jobs and the rich are getting insanely richer while everyone else struggles to just tread water so to speak. The gap between the wealthy and middle class is getting exponentially larger by the day it seems.

If every member of Congress would understand that retirees monthly checks not only helps them have a better sense of security and comfort, but those retirees dollars are circulation dailey keeping our economy staying stronger. If 10,000 retirees receive $2M dollars in monthly checks, they will spend a majority of that money on living expenses, food, gas, and other monthly neccesities which will help keep growing jobs in their communities. Where as if one person on Wall Street or CEO makes that $2M dollars a month in wages or as a bonus, that one person will spend some of that money, but more then likely most of it will be filtered through tax loopholes or maybe sent to some off shore account where it will sit not helping our economy or nations well being as much as if those funds were staying with the retirees who rely on them. The rules and regulations, or lack of rules and regulations, controlling those overseeing or running Wall Street has hurt every American family and community because of the shameless rampant greed that is so prevelent in every transaction on Wall Street. Those actions helped stage the various meltdowns and skimming of billions of dollars through these flagrant actions that made the select few billions of dollars, but cost millions of small investors and retirees the financial security we all thrive for every day of our working life. It is a shame a select few can ruin so many dreams of so many people!!

I love and respect that our President is, finally, going around the evil and corrupt, right-wing forces controlling the GOP. These thugs who pretend to represent the people presently rule our Congress, through ignorance and greed. Where were you (Mr. President) four years, and even two years ago? At last you are recognizing the reality and ruthlessness of the opposition and acting accordingly. Today's GOP is little more than a well-"oiled" (bought and paid for), band of fear and hate monger liars and cheats. With their own TV network, corrupt Governors in over 24 states; a national hate radio network and the US Supreme Court's majority support, these those in our now morally bankrupt Congress have proven themselves ruthless. Working feverishly, in lock-step, they are pushing back with more bad policy making or none at all. They will, inadvertently, destroy the environment, too, in their wake. Their style is repugnant, their policy is poison and their end-game will weaken the middle class and leave the poorest Americans . . . completely hopeless. Thank you, Mr. President, for all you are doing, today, to try to stop them. And, God help save us from the religious right.

I lost a lot of money on stocks, because my financial advisor got paid whether I gain or lose money. So there is no incentive to even do the work to monitor stock accounts and adjust them as daily market conditions may require. I lost money & he still got his percentage of my money, even though the losses and wrong investments (WorldCom) were his fault. I know of no other profession in which you have no responsibility and still collect a nice salary. Regulation of this industry is long overdue. They have already proven that there is no incentive to behave responsibly and regulate themselves.

We have had our own very negative experience with these financial behemoths. So many of the biggest operate solely in their own personal interest no matter if they bring down the economy of this nation and the world! We were nearly ruined by their actions in the recent economic downturn. If we had not been eligible for Social Security we would have lost everything we had worked for all our lives. I realize this refers more to financial advisers, but I am referring more to banks here, which do offer some financial advise as well. We especially HATE Bank of America, Citibank, Chase and Wells Fargo. You might as well be doing business with the Mob!

The best way to encourage people to save for their retirement is to protect them from being ripped off by unscrupulous investment managers. We need regulations with teeth and rigorous enforcement to protect American's retirement security.

Naive folks assume that their financial advisor already has this obligation morally. When they learn that this is not true, it is usually too late for them to avoid financial loss. Making this a legal obligation, to act in the interest of the client, will help prevent this misunderstanding and give recourse to any clients who have been harmed by advisors who survive by using money that isn't theirs.

At last! Legislation to protect the little guy/gal from the excesses of bigness: Big Lobbyists, Big Financials, Big Oil, Big Pharma, Big Insurance, Big Health Care; in general, Big Business and Big Corrupt Politics. Most of us think that's the whole raison d'etre of the government of our Democratic Republic.

As a Daily Money Manager, I work with seniors and regularly fear for their financial security as they lose the ability to discern among the onslaught of ads and mailers that trick or frighten them. That's enough of a crime. Surely financial advisors, who have been allowed more access to the finances of these often vulnerable citizens, should be required to act ethically and honorably. Please tighten the rules for these professionals so that unethical behavior can be punished and higher standards upheld.

Protect citizens rights. Wall Street & Congress

RECIPES FOR THE BOOK: COCINARTISTAS # 1 MATUS DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS COOKIES FOR SUPER HEROES & FRIENDS (This is an original, formally secret, family recipe from Grandma Cookie, circa 2012 AD) 1 1/2 cups of whole oats, blended to flour 1/2 cup of raw almonds blended to meal or finer, as you like 1/4 cup of flax seed, ground 1/2 to 1 cup of shredded coconut, as you like 1 teaspoon of baking powder 1teaspoon of cinnamon 1 pinch pf salt Toss all the dry ingredients together, artfully. Mix seperately: 1 large egg, beaten Add 1/2 to 3/4 cup of sweetener, to taste, in liquid form: Pure Maple syrup is a fabulous choice Agave syrup is pretty good runner up. Tapa Dulce*in liquid form will work very well indeed. 1 teaspoon of vanilla 1/2 cup of good quality, (preferably cold pressed oil) such as safflower oil *Tapa Dulce is raw, unrefined sugar, commonly found in Costa Rica and used in many traditional & non traditional recipes. In a bowl, pour hot water to cover, over dried fruit, to plump it up. 1/2 to 3/4 of a cup of the following suggestions are supurb: Goji berries Cranberries Dried apricot, diced, Cherries For a tropical touch, Costa Rican style, try dried mango, pinapple or banana. Feel free to mix it up or choose the fruit according to your mood or color preference. When the fruit is nicely plump, add the sweetner and egg and oil. (Keep the liquid from soaking the fruit handy.) Now mix the dry ingredients with the wet ones, to a thick, pasty consistancy until every part of the mixture is moist. (here is where the extra liquid from soaking the fruit comes in handy). Line two cookie sheets with parchment paper, eliminating the need for greasing the pans. Plop spoonfuls of the mixture onto the parchment paper, flatten each cookie with a fork, because this cookie dough does not spread or change shape during the cooking. Bake @ 375 degrees F. Until browned on the bottom.n remove and cool on a rack. Yields 24 to 36 cookies, depending on the spoon size you use. Note: these cookies are magical and you will want to bake them for your grandchildren, friends & family, knowing you have made a Happy Healthy Treat with Wholesome ingredients. Enjoy! With love from Grandma Cookie # 2

POWERFUL VITAMINICA MORNING SHAKE: Fill a blender with 1/3 to 1/2 of a freshly chopped pinapple Add 2 or 3 leaves of kale, or a handful of fresh spinach, and/or some parsley. Add 2 large fresh basil leaves or more, to taste Add raw ginger root to taste, (tip: go gingerly here). Blend well, drink and stand back to receive the full effect.

My parents and I have all been steered into bad investments (bad for us; good for them) by financial advisers who claimed to be working on our behalf. And we know of numerous other hard-working people who have been misled by 'their' advisers--who turned out were acting on behalf of themselves & their firms--often in cahoots with Big Banks, Big Insurance, etc. Our economic system grows weaker as those at the very top grow ever wealthier and stronger. Vast inequality leads to ruin for All.

Fiduciary responsibility should be required. This is an important rule that would help American citizens build solid retirement accounts. Our financial institutions that manage these accounts are charging us fees so they should have to act in our interest. The primary reason the country had an economic collapse in 2008 was the irresponsible financial advisors who were working for themselves and not their clients. It should not have been able to happen even once and if it happens again there are some policy makers that need to be out on the street without their huge pensions.

An unregulated $8 trillion housing bubble - laced with fraudulently-rated, mortgage-backed securities popped on Bush's watch and destroyed the world's economy. The banksters didn't go to fail for fraud. It's long past time to clean up Wall Street. Start with this fiduciary rule.

All the retirement benefits to Senetors and Congressman be brought under scrutiny by Public and they must be trimmed in light with Social Security benefits of any layman. They must NOT be treated Royaly and be testd for their Loyalty to the americans in general. They should work on improving the benefits after retirements. Usually, Americans do not save enough so only hope they have through Social Security.. Our elected elites must NOT treat themselves as special and lavish their retirement , unbeknown to Public. I've personally experienced this blight. Heading into retirement I MUST have my retirement accounts performing. Fiduciary responsibility needs to be the ubiquitous rule of financial law, not something hard to find. Your advisors should not be reaping a bigger percentage for themselves than they are gaining for you to augment your income. Shameful.

Clearly the people helping with her taxes don't think it is in her best interest. Surely this is happening to many, many other people. This is not right! PLEASE issue rules to protect customers.

We need to stop this unethical process that has continuously been happening for awhile now. Every American citizen should be treated fairly, equally, and respectfully, especially when it comes to their hard earned income even for many who struggle to find a job or career. I thought that's what financial advisers do but they only care about their own interests or helping their position in their jobs, or whatever financial firm, or business they're affiliated with. Retirees should be able to walk out of their appointments with full confidence, and trust that their advisors have done the job right and fairly.

This should have been law in 1776-more than overdue. Call for a national overhaul/audit of all financial organizations and their employees to locate, correct and compensate investors, and their heirs, where this has not been done. Prosecute infractions/violations to the fullest extent of the law. Encourage investors to demand proof from their financial advisers that their funds have been, are, and will be being managed for the investors gain. Financial advisers and institutions should only be paid in proportion to how well their client's funds are doing; not padded pay cheques and bonuses while clients struggle to make ends meet for basic daily survival needs. End greed, corruption and gray areas. Full transparency/disclosure to clients, and governmental regulatory agencies of all practices.

Universal Movement of Consciousness by Edson Udson (all rights reserved) A great movement for peace, love and freedom around of the world, but to obtain results and do solve problems as poverty, abuses and violence is necessary "union" and "good will" translated in a simple word..."love". Respecting and preserving the nature or combating differences as racism, sexuality or culture and accepting any kind of love, no discriminating anyone in anywhere for anything. I believe it be possible...because love, respect and freedom are all of good. for worldwide children

We must stop bowing to the needs of the corporate wealthy, while we deny the needs of the disabled. The crimes and manipulation and fraudulent behavior has cost countless lives. It is time to remember, we, the people and make Wall Street accountable for their crimes. Pass laws now to protect the people before our democracy is threatened by the dangerous monopoly of citizens united...

We worked for this Social Security all our lives. How about "Hands Off" our Soc. Sec. Trust & by the way...where is the 2.3Trillion $ that has been taken from this fund in the past 10-12 yrs. This was a taken w/o justification. Someone needs to get behind this & find out where 2.3 trillion was spent?! No one is willing to answer this question...no surprise there. Thks for all your efforts. Johanna B.

Finally! A proposition to level the playing field. Fairness to retirees. I lost many thousands owing to bum steers by Kirlin Investments. They walked all over me and, before it was too late, the money from the sale of two houses was gone. "It's backed by the US Government at maturity" they told me. Only when Ecuador went bankrupt did I learn that "maturity" meant I would be 120 years old! What a sap I was.

We The People are living in the final death throes of the financial elites. Of course, they have conspired and will forever conspire to trade for themselves to the detriment of all else. Presently banks are foreclosing on your fellow Americans while employing forgeries and fraud. End the Fed. End the self-anointed financial nobility. I am NOT your friend and corporations are NOT people. Plant more acorns, We are gonna need more trees.

This will be a tough fight. Remember how the Republicans managed to get a LOT of working-class people excited about investing their Social-Security money into self-administered accounts -- doubtless with unregulated free-market financial advisors. The managers of retirement accounts should be held to fiduciary standards - same as doctors and lawyers! A reasonable compromise with the financial services industry would allow assets over a certain amount - say, $1 million - to be invested in a speculative way. But the bedrock of retirement security needs the protection of high ethical standards. I would go beyond what this petition is requesting. Federal regulations can be changed by a new administration. Congress should legislate fiduciary requirements for retirement accounts.

This would help to level the playing field assuming it penalizes financial advisors for creating or saving money for their wealthiest clients at the expense of their other clients (e.g., "making a market" in shares at risk of decline to facilitate large shareholders in selling before "bad news" is more widely known).

It is important that investors be protected from churning, inappropriate investments, and other dangers that they may not have the financial sophistication to evaluate. This is doubly important because anyone can call themselves a financial advisor, and there is no certifying agency or body to attest that the potential advisor has any knowledge of markets, legal frameworks, etc.

Stop letting the banks steal our money. We the taxpayers the people who try to save for retirement only to have their future wiped out by risky trades and investments that are border line illegal. Pensions greatly reduced because Congress and the Government repeatedly given themselves permission to steal mine and others money, with no consequences. We lose and they win. Every banker. every trader every investment or should have been investigated and sent to prison. This had occurred because the White House, Congress and every government agency is in bed with the criminals that go free when Main Street is struggling under regulation that we the people are being destroyed by the rich, a corrupt Congress and Government and special interest pork pigs. This is all of you and shame on you for feeding at an illegal trough denying the American people to DO YOUR JOB!! It's forgotten we pay your paychecks and over the top benefits. You should not be paid if you produce nothing as the Republicans have now done for six years. Why was this allowed? What happened to our once glorious country? It's been taken over by immoral, corrupt people and organizations. GREED. These are not Americans true Americans. Not many have served in our Armed Forces most of them have betrayed their country and their commitment to OUR ideals. Our government is now run by an extremely dangerous tea party and their political stooges want to destroy every thing we, our grandparents our ancestors worked so hard to make a proud America. That's not viable by anyone who does not contribute to society but takes away. That's our America not the commitment to 'WE THE PEOPLE' but those who told us what they would do and they didn't. No one kept their word. So now we have become an embarrassment and laughing stock of the world..And you let that happen. Since the Republican's always sneak another one if the dumb additions to a bill that is meant to reward their donors and screw the American people I would like to add one. Get rid of all Republicans and Tea Party Corps and billionaires are now cut off from any donations or their salary will be $25000 per year no medical no pension. Since no one of them do anything they should all be impeached.

It is time when many American Families struggle to make ends meet in retirement. The pensions they were promised have long dried up in the Great Recession - so it is only fitting that the Government step in to form a web of assistive services to help these citizens achieve what they long desire, financial security with well planned nest eggs for retirement.

WHAT a wonderful and unforeseen coalition, for a desperately needed reform! Thanks to the President and the Senator for a truly visionary, but just plain common-sense rules-change.

It is absurd that all brokers do not need to follow the rules of certified financial advisors/planners. Especially less-sophisticated investors assume that this is already the case, leaving them vulnerable to predatory salespeople. That, in turn, combined with pressure for generating sales of proprietary products, puts honest brokers in a bind. Let's ensure that those who are advising people about their investments give advice based on the client's interests, not their own.

If they dont allow this or fight it im sure americans will soon be fed up and will finally fight for there rights and livley hood resulting in americans coming together its truly just a mattet of time cause like it or not people can only be pushed so far until they snap and enough is enough and then our so called government is going to wish they did the right thing by the people instead of doing things for just themselves so with that being said i am all for this and protecting my retirement

I have been a victim of very bad advice that was motivated by fees for the advisor. I've seen terrible suggestions for IRA investments in risky ventures that only produce tax write offs which are of no value in IRAs. There are suited monsters out there. Our typical low information retirees (who are also low information voters) need any help that they can get even though they continue to vote for healthcare elimination, silly wars and low wages.

Many of our lawmakers have insisted that individuals should take more responsibility and/or have more freedom to invest our money towards retirement. In order to do that, we need to know that financial advisors are acting on our behalf. The proposed rules to assure that make common sense for both the conservative and the progressive points of view.

The financial stability of us seniors who have our retirement income on the market should be regulated to ensure that our best interests are first and not profitability in the form of commissions. That's what a democratic form of government should do on this and other levels: people first and profits second.

At the present time, Wall Street is in the driver's seat on all things financial in the U. S. , and because of lobbying laws, they also dominate in governmental matters, to insure big profits for the "captains of industry." This threatens in numerous ways, protections for the average citizen, at least 80% of them. We need to government to regulate commerce" on behalf of ALL citizens, not just the top 20%. That's all this petition is asking for. Please adopt it!

Americans deserve assurances that financial investments they make are honestly represented, managed competently and for their benefit, and protected to the fullest extent possible to achieve the ultimate objective. These investments should not be an open trough for Wall Street players to play with to their benefit.

This will be a wonderful thing if they can get it done! My father is 98 years old and is entitled to VA Aid and Attendance benefit. I was given the names of two different organizations that supposedly would help veterans file for and receive these benefits. The service was supposed to be free, but when you meet with them they tell you that you must pay $750 to $800 to send to some firm in Utah or Indiana and they are financial advisors and want to move your loved ones assets into products that they sell, and undoubtedly receive commissions. They put out brochures in assisted living and nursing homes and put on seminars in various institutions to get business for themselves. It is a scandal!

I hope that Congress is able to support this modest and long overdue proposal, even if it isn't yet perfect. I think we need to tell Congress & the Labor Department that we really need help with our retirees & support these new rules so that we held those financial advisers to a high standard to the interest of customers, not big banks. I know Wall Street Republicans & blue dog Democrats may not like the idea, but I think it's possible that we keep fighting for these regulations so that they don't end up in Wall Street's hands.

It's a little late for people over the age of 60 as we have gone through 3 recessions during our productive years of employment. We have experienced and suffered from the Savings and Loan debacle, the Dot Com debacle and the current CDO debacle that resulted in the longest and deepest recession in history. You just can't lose that much principal and still be able to retire at any age. Life has too many unexpected "costs" to the individual. A few would be unexpected medical costs, unexpected educational costs, unexpected transportation costs due to foreign political unrest, and the usual "minor" costs like having to have major work on your car, teeth, pets, funeral attendance, loss of job, recovering from natural disasters, etc. ad infinitum.

It is a shame that legislation is necessary, and the obstructionist Rethuglican Congress will probably squelch any positive action the President takes in this matter.

These Rules are important. As a recent retiree I was contacted by an advisor/broker who tried to convince me to move my 401K from my old employer's Plan to new Funds that the advisor/broker would "help" manage. Thankfully I've learned enough over the years to ask about fees and expense ratios; there were new fees and higher expenses associated with his recommendations. Understanding that no one can guarantee investment returns I asked what possible incentive he could offer to induce me to transfer my investments to his care. After an uncomfortable silence, for him, the call ended with a promise to check back with me in the future. No calls in 16 months. I relate this exchange because I understand John Bogle supports the President's initiative on new Rules for advisors/brokers and the call I received was from a Vanguard advisor/broker where I have an account. Obviously no corporate culture, even one of such high standards as those at Vanguard, or any Rules can eliminate unscrupulous actors from taking advantage of common folks but the Rules proposed by the President will address a problem that will only grow as defined benefit pensions disappear and defined contribution plans increase.

So sad and sorta silly we have to restate the fact that financial advisors are supposed to have a fiduciary responsibility for their clients/customers. When did they start thinking differently? What is it about the simple words "trusted advisor" they do not understand? It's time our congressional representative started behaving like adults instead of a bunch of out of control Jr. High juveniles. We elected you to WORK. Get to it!

I hope this law contains the ability to pursue criminal charges. Thus far, Wall Street, the Banks and their affiliates have committed financial crimes against humanity and gotten away with paying laughable fines with the money they stole along with a slap on the hand. That Big Banks can game the Libor Rate and not be prosecuted under the RICO Act makes me feel like crime is a label only used for the middle class and poor. Justice can be purchased in the United States, my home, job, and assets were stolen with the help of Congress and can be stolen again. What is the incentive to invest in the United States when the game is rigged against you? We need to fight fire with fire. What if the middle class began off-shoring their paychecks, how long would these financial institutions survive? We have a long road ahead of us to undue all of the damage done since Reagan fronted the Bush Cartel and ALEC was unleashed against We the People.

Fairness. That's all people are asking for. If they keep getting denied Fairness, they might just want to fit for it rate than ask for it. It's getting old. People shouldn't have to scrape to get by when they've put in terror time in the workforce. Promised must be kept.

The criminals have taken over. They are against transparency. They hate whistle-blowers. They bribe the lawmakers to enact laws that are NOT in the interest of their clients. They are the lawyers that always win even when their clients lose. Good luck in getting the US Congress to protect the consumers! They are mostly self-serving attorneys that work to distort reality in order to steer investor clients into unethical investments that aren't in their own best interests.

That we would even need a law or reg for this is appalling evidence of how low some segments of "American" society have sunk. Let's take the next step and make sure we all know the names of the people who do this sort of thing and the people who are fighting efforts to correct it. They each and everyone deserve every bit of the opprobrium that can be heaped upon them.

It cost my FATHER $6,000.00 by TRUSTING A Westren&Southern insurance salesman (" RETIREMENT ADVISOR") to KEEP his FAMILY'S Buarial Money in AN Annuity---RATHER THAN pay it IN ADVANCE---makeing him IN-ELLEGEABLE for Medicade to pay MY MOM'S nurseing-home bill---A PRE-PAID FURNAL would have NOT been COUNTED as SAVEINGS & Medicade would have PAID MOM'S NURSEING-HOME BILL IN FULL!!!!!! AND NOOO OHIO DID NOT GIVE US ANY TIME TO CONVERT THE FUNDS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Had Mom LIVED longer the bills (FULLY COVERED BY MEDICADE(except His MONEY was in the WRONG FUND) WOULD HAVE WIPPED-OUT 80% of ALL DAD'S SAVEINGS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

There has been a lot of fear-mongering about Social Security and much talk of how people should save for retirement without it. Why can we not protect people who are trying their best to provide for themselves? These rules would be a good step to make us more secure. Financial advisors, like the rest of us, would take pride in doing a service to their customers. These rules might keep them from temptation.

We need these rules desperately. Without them, more and more of the working population will find themselves destitute even just a few short years into their retirement. The current Congress is not there to help 'we, the people'. The current Congress serves the 1% exclusively. Don't be fooled.

Those retiring have given many long years of service to society at large and to support their families. To have them ruthlessly exploited by financial interests that have caused so much damage already to our economy is beyond the pale and should be stopped. The Labor Department must stand up and defend those of us who have labored for years and deserve a decent living after their work is over. LJJ

This a regulation that should have occurred as soon as the banks put us into a tornado of economics in the great depression of the 1930's. I use to think that the depression could never happen again because we are intelligent people and civilized and we learn the lessons taught to us by our predecessors. But now I am reminded by a quote from one of my first year nursing instructors, "Marilyn you never make the same mistake twice, you just make new mistakes every day." The 'professional rule' is perfectly applied here regarding the customers' interests over the professionals. Liability comes from bad practice, bad standards, and bad advice. The financial adviser cannot shirk their responsibility to their client and not entail 'malpractice.' Somehow, Wall Street has maintained the fiction that they are exempt from the consequences of bad advice. They must be held responsible.

In five years I will have 30 years at the same job. It was stated to me at 30 years I can retire. Our retirement is in jeopardy and already they've made changes. I cannot retire in 5 years, I must wait until I'm 60. I am sick and tired of advisers making changes to retirement systems for their own financial gain.

What is sad about this action is that it is necessary! In a "free" society the law represent the basist level of morality. But, in a capitalist plutocracy, proclaiming the one's action weren't wrong because they were legal is the new norm.

Having searched for a financial advisor recently, I can attest to how difficult it is to find a person in whom you can have some trust that they are acting in your best interest. Fee-based advisors are great for people who can afford their fees, but they often only wish to work with high-net worth clients. (I don't fall into that category.)

I personally know retirees who have had their investments negatively impacted because of their advisors pushing products that did not fit their portfolio or goals, meaning the investors put the needs of their client second to their own agenda. Pass this reform legislation please!

Without these regulations, Americans have no way of ensuring their financial advisors are acting in the best interest of the investor rather than the financial advisor. Lack of regulation is costing the average American and resulting in an unstable retirement future for many.

The entire financial community (including Ins co's, banks, brokerages, investment co's, and others) needs to start being held accountable for their greed. Especially noteworthy are Goldman Sachs, Citibank, and JP Morgan Chase, but there are hundreds, if not thousands of financial companies with corrupt corporate culture and bad ethics.

The financial system and investing is so complex that regular people can't do it without investment assistance. When it's my money, I want to know that the person I'm paying is looking out for my interest. Why should anyone save for retirement when it's so volatile & risky. Help protect the little we can save, please!

Investing in Wall Street makes about as much sense as investing in the lottery. To call our 401K funds "investing" is an immense lie. Why should we be risking retirement funds in the stock market when the whole thing is a scam, rigged to enrich the already wealthy? The whole system is a corrupt mess and needs to be torn down.

As a former financial services agent, it appalled me when I was in the business to see clients who clearly had suffered financially due to this of this type of misdirection, in spite of the fiduciary responsibility and ethics under which we were supposed to be operating. I am glad to see this issue gaining attention and hope that the new rules will indeed better protect the future life that Americans have worked so hard to achieve.

It is a sad sad reality that in our wonderful democracy we actually have to SIGN for doing this. How pathetic. And, in the meantime, these false prophet Republicans are ruining Christianity for me...at least. For me they are making a mockery out of Jesus Christ and all he stood for - as far as I learned growing up a Methodist. I am very up set, and I have NO DOUBT that Jesus is turning over in his grave about all this done "in hoc signo." Their sign is a very very atheistic one. Just read what Ayn Rand had to say about all this. Hugh W Buckingham

We need to put in place rules that dictate the level of honesty and disclosure in dealing with all customers who seek information and help in getting loans to planning their retirement. Too often financial institutions have omitted crucial information or who have misled customers into the signing agreements that place their property and security in jeopardy. This endangers our entire society when these institutions behave in predatory behavior.

As one of those who lost a significant amount of his 501k investment in large part due to faulty financial adviser to stay the course advice during financial crisis, I support this petition. I might add during this period, what I assume was not a uncommon thing, my financial adviser was replaced three times. This hardly is conducive to building a trusting relationship by either party.

It was the Regan government that started the movement of business providing their workers pension to making the worker save for their own retirement. For the most part Americans retirements are in 401k / in the stock market. Those who manage these account need to be held accountable. The government put us in this position it is the government that needs to protect us.

My late wife didn't have the advantage of having a particularly adept or honest financial adviser. While my 401k rose in value, her IRA kept losing money. Despite my advice, she kept investing with that adviser, who I think was creating wealth for herself and not for her clients. My wife's brother had the same results with the same adviser, who used her position as an old family friend to continue abusing those who trusted her.

Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort.

ALL professions have Codes of Ethics outlining the applicable elements of the fiduciary duties required for the particular tasks performed by that profession. We had naturally assumed that financial planners operated with the same sets of rules as the rest of us. How foolish to just assume. This one is a no brainer, and the opponents, or those foolish enough to stake out the territory of an opponent, will be placing the mark of imminent retirement upon themselves. David C. There is an order to everything. After giving and working 25 to 50 years of your life you would think that you have earned the right to enjoy the fruits of your labor. Retirement , a right of passage? Give the next generation their right to become the future they have been groomed for. Allow the retirees the rest and compensation they have earned. We all benefit when we do the right thing. Lets do the right thing.

Congress should be ashamed. The tax payers are paying for you to live a life of luxury while they suffer. You pretentious people say you are for the people. YOU ARE NOT. You are for how much you can get out of us. Why can't you take a pay cut? Why can't you pay your own insurance? Why can't you be half fair? We the people want justice and freedom.

Now that company backed pensions are becoming a thing of the past, workers are at the mercy of their 401 k plans. Any hope of retirement security lies in the hands of the funds chosen by company management. Often companies are given perks to join certain plans and heaven only knows what the priorities of the financial advisors are under these conditions. If Congress really cares about the future of American retirees and other investors as well, it will take action to protect the public.

I have seen the excessive amounts of money taken from both personal investments as well as retirement and pension funds that simply diminish the total return to both. Financial advisors are free to act with our money on their own interests and can not be held accountable for their actions. It license to steal. There must be a fiduciary duty for these "money managers and advisors" with respect to the money they invest to whosever money it is.

Even "popular" television advertising features the "secrecy" of the charges made by financial advisers to their clients. This has led to some very questionable practices. I have had serious discussions with my financial adviser regarding investment choices and their charges. He has chosen to be clear about these choices and their charges, and I fully appreciate him and his services for this. I believe every other person deserves the same good service. By the way, because of the "good advice" I have followed, I have gone into a comfortable retirement, though my late wife and I worked for relatively moderate salaries: she as a teacher; I working in psychiatric rehabilitation; neither a well-paid field.

Every financial firm/adviser should have a fiduciary responsibility to their investors, big or small! Financial institutions have repeatedly taken unethical risks on behalf of their clients, negating any fiduciary duty, this action on their behalf is unacceptable and reaffirms that they can't be trusted on their own and need more stringent regulation to protect investors. Any investor should have protections so no investment firm/adviser puts their interest above that of the investor, ever! Congress, standing in the way of a government agency set to issue rules in this area creates an environment where fiduciary duty is gladly over-looked by those that are implicitly trusted by the investor. Greedy people cannot be changed, they will always be greedy and it is far easier to have regulations in place that are legally binding for the protection of investors. The Great Depression and Great Recession both happened when there was little to no regulation of the financial industry, history will repeat itself if allowed.

As a retired American, I believe it is time for Congress to step up to the plate and do the right thing for this country. Restore credibility to the political process by representing middle class Americans who have no safety net when it comes to Wall Street predators. I urge you to act on behalf of the working class who built this country and continue to harness the burden of keeping this country stable and secure. Thank you.

Pretty hard to see the downside of regulating the financial industry. Voters have not forgotten about the crash, the great recession, sub prime loans, and the small industry based on reckless financial instruments. I'm fine with bankers having one less way to get massive bonuses. Impose regulations--they won't regulate themselves.

Basic legal, as well as financial, ethics should apply to financial advisors, who have access to confidential information and often some aspects of the power of attorney, should always represent the client's best interest. If not, then my supermarket cashier might as well provide financial advice and act upon their own interest in my name legally. No--this is as bad as any Ponzi scheme!

Before the 2007-08 crash, I almost signed into a annuity With a major company that charged a few .1% of fee here and a few there. If it was not for my bullheadedness with the financial adviser and finally taking the fine print home, I would have lost almost half of our retirement savings and still paid them fees. Restrictions are a very good idea.

More employers are abandoning pensions and pushing most Americans into investment programs which don't guarantee a livable retirement income. I put the maximum into my 401k and IRA in my 30s through 50s and should be able to retire comfortably by now 64. Because of trusting advisers and the stock market while I paid attention to working hard for my company I actually lost nearly back to my own investment amount. I trusted that my company had honest advisers handling my account while I made money for our highly paid upper management. Now I don't see ever being able to retire. We need to have rules in place that hold financial businesses accountable to act responsibly in the interest of their customers.

Financial Advisors, by their very title, are here for all of us to make the most of our hard-earned money and reap the benefits of our labor. The money they handle is our precious future. It is not and should not be used to line advisors' pockets. It is stealing. It amazes me that there has to be a LAW against it.

Finally, the true concept of fiduciary duty is being brought to the forefront of the debate. Not only investing, but Social Security as well involve fiduciary duties. The right has been attacking the true meaning of fiduciary for over 5 decades. Thanks deregulation! The major reason this country has such a disproportionate wealth distribution is the "trickle dowb" myth Reagan spread.

In 2008, Wall Street Financial Advisors were kept from bankruptcy by use of taxpayer funds. A few of those survivors paid out large bonuses the following year. Due to the Subprime load failures, banks across the nation faced closing, yet they too were rescued by funds from American taxpayers. The banks retained those funds not to improve Home Financing, but to earn interest for profit on these same taxpayer funds. I for one want to see stronger federal enforcement on Wall Street and Financial Advisors using American retirement - Pension funds in large blocks to create market fluctuations that benefit their own financial gain. This is an issue that requires non-partisan oversight and federal enforcement with severe penalties for non-compliance.

We have a spiritual war with those in heavenly places, and we are winning the war against these selfish, greedy and lovers of money. They had their day in the sun with there shady business deals. I believe Jesus is soon to return to earth. He won't be as docile as he tried to teach us how to take care of our mind, body and spirit. I recall the lyrics of a song money can't buy back you happiness when your growing old. "What profits a man if he gains the whole world, but loses his soul.

This is long overdue. This should be the law of the land and should have been 50 years ago. I'd call it ethical behavior with integrity. No one should be allowed to knowingly sell pigs with lipstick to people saving for their retirement. It's not that hard to do and it's in the best interests of the country over the long term.

This is desperately needed. I was misled by representatives at AG EDWARDS, EDWARD JONES, ALLMERICA and METLIFE. BY THE TIME I FIGURED OUT WHAT YOU ARE SAYING, I HAD LOST TENS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS IN AN INHERITED RETIREMENT ACCOUNT. FOR EVERY DIME I TOOK, THEY TOOK 2. If it lost money, they profitted. If it gained money, they profitted. They have million dollar homes and BMW's and I had debt and a broken down car with over 100,000 miles on it. THANKYOU for addressing this!

It is a SHAME that we have to call on the Department of Labor to get professional investment advisors to act in the best interest of their customers! I strongly support a higher standard and stronger rules to see that the American public is not taken advantage of in their efforts to save for their retirement years and to have money to send their children to college! SHANE on greedy financial advisers!

Perhaps I am cynical, but I know my financial adviser is working his/her own agenda and does NOT have my interests in the forefront. I had a "financial adviser" that I trusted because I was embroiled in a divorce and did not have the time nor the energy to manage my own retirement savings. This "adviser" leveraged my account into small tech companies, and as a result in a matter of a very few weeks my account went from $300,000 to about $12,000 before I pulled the plug and fired him. I trusted my adviser to manage my best interests and he managed his own. I did NOT need a $288,000 "lesson" in who comes first, and I was lucky, in that I still had some earning years ahead where I could hope to regain a small portion of what I had lost. Far too many people, especially elderly and less sophisticated investors trust a financial adviser to manage their assets in line with the investors' goals. Sadly, most "advisers" are working their own goals, so this legislation is critically important to protect the investments and savings of retirees.

Absolutely Right On... Worked CSR In The Insurance Industry For 21 Years And Can Attest That This Vigilance Is Necessary. Had Many Seniors Call To Lament How Their Broker Talked Them Into Converting The Cash Value In Their Whole Life Policy Into Incentive Life, With "Front End" Loads For Their Commissions Taken Right Off The Top, The Rest Invested In Aggressive, Volatile Funds, With Little Or No Hope Of Recovering Their Losses While In Their Golden Years... My Dad's 70 Something Year old Retired Battery Salesman Lost $10,000 To ENRON! My Young Neighbor Claims To Have Sold Insurance For A While. When I Lamented Such Predation, He Responded, "They Should He Responded With, "They Should Have Read The Fine Print. Trust Vulture Capitalists With My Social Security? H E To The Double L, NO! Thanks Prez Obama And Senator Warren! About Time, Such Fraudsters Were Called To Account, Exclamation, Exclamation, Explanation And Standing Ovation. Root, Root, Root. :)

It is crazy to allow the financial 'services' sector to profit at the expense of their clients rather than to work for their gain. This is just one indicator of how far off center our society has come, that we treat such unethical behavior as acceptable. We need to hold one another to a standard of mutual benefit. This is a reasonable standard, which only sounds unreasonable because we have accepted absurdity. Please join me in signing this petition.

most workers are not sophisticated investors, if a person has the apparent knowledge. but after working for securities firms for over 20 years. most salesperson sell what makes them the most money not what is best for the client. i know from first hand experience. my mothers life insurance proceeds after my father's death. the bond salesman put my mother in high interest junk bonds. Financial advisors are paid explicitly to guide the decisions of their clients toward the client's financial goals, not that of the advisor. The client has no independent means, by definition, of independently verifying the advice given, and advisors who abuse this trust are committing theft via sales fraud. DOL should have rules that prohibit such fraud by specifying a fiduciary interest to the client.

If it is right to allow financial advisors to not act in the best interests of their clients, at least please explain, in plain English, why financial advisors should be legally allowed to put their own financial interests ahead of the financial interests of their clients.

Bankers have become the most grossly overpaid, and yet most grossly under-regulated, demons of America. It is high time to change that, through strong regulation by the Federal Government. Bankers must make America more affordable for working citizens. Interest rates on loans for homes, college tuition, credit cards and so on are far too high.

$17 Billion with a B - every single year? I'm at a loss for words. But "staggering", "insane", and "criminal" come to mind. Let's pay attention to see which politicians fight this and how they try to spin their reasons. There is no valid reason to fight this. Some will, though, and I think they should be publicly called on it. Did I mention "shameful"?

This remains a vexing problem primarily due to industry's ability to curry favor with elected officials. The corrupting influence of money in our political system is undermining our democratic traditions and discouraging Americans from voting and/or running for office. This ominous development may well end our experiment in representative democracy unless we alter this decades-long trend. For the sake of the republic, we must amend the US Constitution to state that corporations are not people (and do not have constitutional rights) and money is not speech (and thus can be regulated by state and/or federal campaign finance laws). Short of accomplishing this, no other reform of significance will be achieved. The moneyed interests will turn any reform to their benefit, often at the expense of the nation as a whole.

I am unprotected, because the State of TX stole 75% of my 30 years paying into the social security system, since I receive a meager teacher's pension. I paid into both systems most of my life, yet thanks to GWB/Tom Delay, and other GOP/Tea Party corrupt politicians, I am constantly facing homelessness. There must be a lock-box on Social Security, and strict regulations as to securing retirement security.

This sounds great, but doubt it can be enforced. (I had supposedly great "brokers" handling my IRA when I got too busy with work to handle my own investing, but somehow it never grew above what I had input myself - then for years I got class action lawsuits that might pay me back $5 of $5,000 or so that I had lost.)

Savings and loan scandal of the 80's...increased FICA payments and the Social Security Trust Fund...Wall Street bailout...pension and retirement fund irregularities...financial advisors to the working class....all point to the those who work, plan, sacrifice and save only to be victimized at the end by the unscrupulous. The worst part of it all is they are aided and abetted by a government supposedly designed in part for "the public good". Thank you, Mr President and Senator Warren, for moving to plug one hole in the sieve that represents the dome of protection for America's middle and working class.

This is a "no-brainer" in my opinion. Financial advisers call themselves "Professional Financial Advisors" and consumers have every right to trust that such professionals will act on their behalf or be held accountable.

I have constantly questioned my financial advisor about fees. I have always got vague answers. I am so glad something is being done. Thank you for your all your efforts in trying to protect senior citizens.

Since 1999 I have been in the financial services industry and have worked for four of the largest banks in our country. I was always very good at selling banking products, investments, mortgages, etc. I was never able to tell customers what I thought was best for them or what I would do if I was them unless they asked. Otherwise, I would get fired. The truth is, it would be so easy for our banks to do the right thing, and everyone would be happier. By signing this petition, we honor our national banking system.

As a retired CPA, I have seen the abuse by some "financial advisors," especially those who have pushed "financial managers" who have engaged in high volume trading in retirement accounts for people who should not have been exposed to that risk or those costs and who did not understand the implications of their choice. Fiduciary duty should be the required standard.

Stop Wall Street Fat Cats from raping hard-working Americans!! They sit in their offices maybe 5 hours per days and make ungodly fees for nothing by transferring our savings into investments they do not have a clue about. I personally know one of them and he makes a minimum of $10M per year for doing nothing. I worked hard for my measly $50k - allow me, who really needs the money, to have these fees cut so that I can have money for my retirement. These guys buy apartments and cars that cost more than my home. It is highway robbery and these loopholes have to be stopped. Please help out is working class folks who are trying to do the right thing and save money so we do not become older American statistics who are solely dependent on the govt for living expenses when we retire. I'm sick of my Thrift Savings Plan being charged extraordinary fees (and it is a UK based company) and my 401 k hit withs same same extreme fees.

To our Reps & Sens: protect all investors by requiring all financial advisors to put their client's interest ahead of their own just as other regulated professionals must do legally. Thank you for this to protect us from the greedy crooks!

Move On Folks, PLEASE remove this note about my credit card change from every email you send me. I believe in the work you do but I will stop my support if you don't look out for me and any financial info I have shared with you. I also have concerns about your joining with the Conservatives. Yes, I believe we need to engage in conversation and forward mutual interest, so much of the divide is divisive. But I do not want to sign on 100% side by side with their ideologies, I say it's time for further negotiations, they always want it their way. If they have invited Move On to further better communication for the country, then the first step is being able to say NO to a blanket rule they set up. Again, I will discontinue my support of Move On if that is what you sign the group to do. Thank you for all your hard work, as always things are not just black or white

Protect the people of the USA! We elect you - we pay your salaries - we keep our end of the bargain. Now - it's time for you to keep yours. Protect the hard earned dollars we've made to last through our lives. It's our money, not yours or Wall Street's. We deserve it, and as our elected officials you need to protect us by protecting our investment savings. Got it? Good.

Any professional who acts outside of the best interest of his/her client is not a professional. If financial advising is actually a REAL PROFESSION, it must be unethical and illegal for financial advisers to not act in the best interest of their clients. Putting the client's best interest at the center is what makes a profession professional: doctors, teachers, lawyers, counselors, mitigators, mediators, and so all have legal obligations to serve the best interest of their clients. Allowing financial advisers to to serve their own interests ahead of their clients is to say: "Financial advising is not a real profession; it's a legal scam."

In view of the fact that many of the protections afforded the public against wrongdoing by banks, financial service companies and investment advisors were substantially weakened and banks and investment firms were the recipients of taxpayer funded bailouts (the true cost of which has never been fully repaid), it is only appropriate that appropriate regulations be imposed upon investment advisors to curb their abusive, exploitive practices.

Thankful to have a president now who (at least some of the time) works to change things for the better in the interest of the people as opposed to working for his own gain through the pockets of the disgustingly wealthy. Unfortunately all the good he has done will unravel quickly once he steps down. By the time I'm old and need someone to fight for me i doubt there will be a heartfilled soul left.

The way this reads, then if you're a Congressman or Senator, especially a Republican, then you should be on board, especially as a Tea Party elected official, then you should want to make sure that every taxpayer who "INVESTS" in a retirement fund of some sort, be allowed to keep more of their money, and even be able to earn or invest more of their retirement income, without the penalties or restrictions that are incurred because of either more taxes, regulations or lack of fiduciary controls. Therefore, you should be behind this Action in particular, no matter what party you are from.

It's time! greed is blinding these corporate run puppets, against the fact that the more hopeful and invigorated the middle class is the better they can rig the system again to steal from them!they're missing the opportunity to be leveraging way more money out of the middle class if they let them get a little bit better off before they rob them with their corporate rig in the Wall Street systems that funnel in upwards to the rich. What's stupid about this Congress and the corporate greed is that there strangling the hand that feeds themthey could be making way more money than they are doing now by keeping the middle class so downtrodden. They could be making the middle class better paid happier better workers so they have more to steal from them! Raise the wage raise the gap?

Just like other professionals we go to for help: doctors, lawyers, dentists, mechanics, etc., it is their job to do a good job for us, that is why we hire/pay them. This should be especially true for financial advisors since this is such a complex and complicated area that the majority of people have no experience or knowledge about. We rely on them to help us, their clients, not themselves.

Under the 1974 Employee Retirement Income Security Act, anyone designated a pension fiduciary must act solely in the interest of plan participants. With workers relying more on 401(k) and IRA accounts instead of defined benefit pensions in recent years, the goal must be to expand the fiduciary requirement to more advisers, such as broker dealers, who offer advice on such accounts. Securing future retirees money makes economic sense, asking financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers makes moral sense.

My retirement savings evaporated in 2008. My 401(k) options were limited by my employer's choice of a management company. All the available options tanked, there were no "safe" investments. At 63 and disabled I face a new life in poverty.

This should be law. All financial advisors should act as fiduciaries - get this in writing on your own if the government won't act and then you can sue. The system is rigged and needs many reforms - bring back Glass-Steagall, toughen Dodd-Frank. Break up any bank "too big to fail". Stop gambling with our money to enrich yourselves - you get the profits and pass the risks to the 99%. Prosecute criminals like Jamie Dimon and other "banksters".

A family member went to the same broker for decades and was convinced that his investments were doing very well. Once my brother got a look at the funds, he realized they were not free from assorted broker fees. But our relative refused to believe that his broker was not treating him well and continued their relationship. We can only guess how much he lost in fees over the decades.

Unfortunately, I can attest to the need for these new rules. I was victimized by a private, for profit financial consulting firm who was operating under the guised of a, not-for-profit, credit union. This gave me the impression that under the management oversight of the credit union, they had my best interests in mind. They offered an incentive bonus of 5% per $100k of investment money for a guaranteed minimum return of 2%. At the end of the year they declared I had earned 6% on my $100k investment, but the problem was, as it turned out, they were including the, so called, 5% bonus incentive money they suckered me with to get my money. Originally it was a bonus incentive and suddenly at the end of the year that same money has morphed into interest. I'm pretty sure there is a name for this and it's called 'fraud'.

The fleecing of Americans must no longer go unchecked. Corporations are wielding unprecedented power over the consumer with no recourse on their behalf. This is a step in the right direction and hopefully even more interventions will be forthcoming in the near future. Thank you Elizabeth!

Full disclosure and transparency are needed when fiduciary responsibilities are involved. Whether it is Wall Street broker or advisor or government officials, one cannot give advice while hiding conflict of interest behind a veil of secrecy. Tighten down on financial advisers and Wall Street. Kudos for Senator Warren for championing this important issue on behalf of hard-working Americans.

No more spending retirees hard errand money. The government never was suppose to borrow the money anyway, but the people voted on that one. The government was to pay it back. I am not sure that happened. Little slips of paper don't count. We would have accrued interest on that money, also. We lent it in good faith. Now you are trying to get over on us. Where is our true representation. Who will look out for us, "We The People"?? Give us the respect and the representation we deserve. Please protect our money which is rightfully the people, which I am one.

With the issues with Goldman Sachs it is important to have some protection to individual investors. Individual advisers are only part of the problem big investment firms able to create transactions in a milisecond as created unfair trading advantage not given to the individual trader, making newspaper and even online stock prices and direction irrelevant due to the speed of these programs that allow manipulation in the market.

Somebody has to look out for us because its clear the Republicans are not I guess they have forgotten that it takes a village not only to watch out for the children but for those who do not have the financial ability to do so or how are limited I wish every Blue Collar person would lay out of work for one week so those who have much could see how much they would suffer

Doctors, lawyers and other professionals are expected to act in the interest of their consumers -- why aren't financial advisors? Every single year, an estimated $17 billion dollars is transferred from Main Street retirement accounts into Wall Street's coffers—because brokers and financial advisers are allowed to steer investors into unethical investments that aren't in their own best interests. DO THE RIGHT THING FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE!!

Savings should be encouraged and protected, from high fees and taxation, because saving require sacrifice and caring about the future and the ability for families to earn and be productive, responsible citizens. It's an investment where the returns are incalculable and the value critical to the survival of the country.

I am trying very hard to be a wise custodian of my retirement monies, but am overwhelmed by the financial industry's ability to confuse me with management fees, transaction fees, advisor fees, until I have no idea whether my interests are being represented. I accept responsibility for being custodian of my investments, but would genuinely appreciate legislation that supported my efforts.

How much more proof is required to demonstrate just what unholy scum the Weasels of Wall Street really are? And they have the unspeakable gall to claim that they should have the right to rob people if they want to?!?!? Are you kidding me? Well, if they have the right to lie, cheat and steal, then their victims should have the right to exact retribution from these evil bags of pig excrement, in whatever manner they deem appropriate. Get ready for some epic payback, Wall Street!

The public has learned that it has been duped by financial advisers who have been disingenuous in honoring their fiduciary responsibilities to those who have payed them for quality advice. Their greed should be rewarded with hefty fines and by baring them from being advisors.

there is no comment that can be made to either a republican congress (of , for that matter, to almost any republican), or to wall street that would make sense to people who are so consumed with greed and that that have ceased being human. This appeal lacks sufficient specificity to really inspire me. It's like your asking financial advisers to voluntarily do what they are supposed to do. Obviously, many or most of them act only in their own/their business' interests. I'll sign it, but I'm skeptical that you'll have any impact on the Department of Labor without holding their hands to the fire.

Requiring that financial advisers have their own profits at risk in the positions they recommend to clients - as opposed to brokerages where advisers can maximize returns by minimizing genuine effort - is the best solution to the conflict of interest between supplier rents and consumer protection. Department of obvious here. If I behaved as badly as some of these guys do in the name of doing their jobs, I'd be serving one long prison sentence after another. OF COURSE people who provide services to others should advise prudently and provide the service they say they will-good advice, in this case-or their business should be considered fraudulent. In the name of protecting consumers from fraud, please pass legislation that encourages ethical and legal behavior-and then-ENFORCE. That should be good to start with.

Mr. President is trying to make America a better place for all citizens and must apply a variety of pathways to make the right things happen! This is an appropriate path to take because unfortunately many financial advisers do not act in the best interests of their customers. Thank you MoveOn.org for taking on this issue.

I know this sounds made up, but after my father died my mother was told by a "certified financial planner" to invest in limited partnerships that made him a bundle and lost most of what she started with. I had no idea that was legal. We tried to sue him but although the lawyers agreed we got screwed, we had no case.

I lost roughly $100,000 a few years ago when a presumably bona fide financial advisor put me in an investment for which I later found he got a sizable fee. It was investigated by the government and found to be illegal. I lost the investment and had to pay a fine, in addition. The advisor could not be located.

Deregulation has allowed the unscrupulous to put the unqualified in charge of nearly everything in the United States, delivering higher profit returns on greatly diminished value. It hurts everyone for the benefit of the least deserving, and undermines competition, Capitalism's only implement of accountability. This change will fix that defect for financial planning services. its is a very worthwhile start, but it is a long way from enough.

It's too late for me. I lost all of my retirement in 2008. Now, like many disabled and older Americans, I sometimes feel such fear as to how I will eat and have a roof over my head, that the thought of dying provides relief as a last resort. I haven't the physical strength to start over. It's so sad. The news speaks of "terrorists abroad", but I see terrorists as being the bankers and lobbyists that fail to care about the "greater good".

I have no faith that the members of congress will act in the interests of the people. Those who control both chambers have already demonstrated their willingness to ignore what's best for this country in order to make gains for their party. However, in the off-chance that some of you might do what's right instead of rubber-stamp what your party leadership wants, I ask that you take these steps to help ensure the prosperity of all. Thank you.

My elderly mother would have benefited from the proposed changes requiring financial advisors to act in customers' interest. After I learned she'd signed an ill-advised contract, I filed a formal complaint with FINRA which went nowhere because of the current lack of regulation. It was very frustrating, especially because her financial advisor got her signature when she was in an assisted living facility, was nearly blind, close to deaf, and had dementia so would not have been able to read or hear his explanation of why she should follow his advice. My husband and I fully support the Administration's proposal and urge Congress to protect the investor rather than the profits of the financial industry. Sometimes there is legislation which invokes debate and disagreement and can have reasoned opposition; this is not one of those times. Ensuring financial advisors do there job and don't use people's savings as a personal pot for personal gain is a straightforward proposal with good intentions . Any congressman voting against this legislation would be proving that their interests are with big business and wallstreet, not middle class Americans.

This country belongs to the American people who are the one's that created and maintained a healthy and productive work force that brought the American dream to every citizen. The far Right is in the process of dismantling every workable solution that the American people used to get their piece of the American dream. This is a great start to upending what the GOP crowd is so bent on taking our rights as workers away so that they and their corporate owners can rake in more money. Time to put a stop to the rights anti-American agenda and send them packing with their followers to another country where they can do as they please but it's time to rid this nation of those who want to bring this country down in no uncertain terms!

I am thrilled that Senator Elizabeth Warren is joining President Obama in formulating rules that will stop stop financial advisers from bilking their clients out of hard earned funds which should go towards their retirement investment. I am proud to be able to join in supporting what both you Senator Warren and the President are trying to accomplish. In kindest regards, Bob N. McCoy (360) 754-9367

By keeping the advisors on the honest track it could possibly lift some retired people out of strained economic circumstances. As a retired senior whose income is partly funded by previous investments, I would be in much more difficult financial straits if those with whom my funding were gouging and leaving me with much less. This makes me an even more enthusiastic supporter of these proposed new rules. Thank you for taking this action.

Thank you for this - I have often felt it is very reasonable to protect the efforts of the average person to save for retirement. The "game" has certainly been rigged... We are told to save for retirement on the one hand, and many of us recognize that we don't have the wherewithal to make safe investments without the help of supposed "professionals". Hard - I am supposed to "trust" the investment professional has my best interests at heart while at the same time having the ability to discern if they are doing a good job (which is what I have "hired" them to do in the first place!).

I had the experience of a financial advisor, a female who I liked. (I had just re-located and transferred my IRA and individual investment club funds over to her) I thought I was doing great until a co-worker of my husband, also a teacher was astounded at my portfolio and the tactics she was using and the fees she was charging to add to her own coffers and Wall Streets. He showed me where I was losing $$ left and right. He was surprised how unethical but "legal" her transactions were. My portfolio had indeed plummeted during 2001 to 2007, but she assured me we were in "unusual times" and to hang in there. She had been in business for years in the same location but actually "disappeared" 2 months after I transferred my accounts. I learned the hard way....but many didn't. I'm not rich by any means, but it was quite dis-heartining to realize that I had lost over 9 months of TOTAL income (as an Emergency Room Nurse) due to her "investments". That was a wake up call. And actually a pretty big deal.

If a financial advisor does not act in the best interest of his client he is a thief, period. It is a sad reflection on the industry to have to create this rule, it should be part of their code of ethics. Please enact this rule.

We are getting to the point where France was before the Revolution.....Wall Street may be able to afford cake.....the rest of us are having to make decisions between eating ...or heating our homes....or doing without a car....while having a job. The Corporate greed in this country has got to stop.....protect my retirement securityI have worked for 44 years FOR my retirement security.....and can't afford to retire because of these guys that walk around in thousand dollar shoes and continue to rob the working poor.

Financial advisers make quite enough money without having to make even more off the backs of the middle-to-lower class. Saving for retirement is hard enough when many of us are living paycheck-to-paycheck. Please don't make it even more difficult by acting in your best interests instead of ours.

Financial firms and banks that handle retirement accounts need to declare a fiduciary standard in relation to their clients. A fiduciary standard means that by law the investment firm must place its' customers' interests first. Currently, these firms and banks are not bound by law to put their customers' interests first, which means they are probably going to peddle their proprietary "products", usually mutual funds of middling quality that are larded with hidden fees.

I've been reading several comments about this proposal. One comment was that if people get screwed by their financial advisor, it's their own fault for not doing their own research. Another commenter suggested that this should go under the Treasury department and not labor. Investing is so complicated these days, that it is very difficult to know what to do, and there is a lot of conflicting advice. So it makes sense that one should have a financial advisor, whose living depends on his or her expertise. Furthermore, this should be under the department of labor. Treasury is too friendly with Wall Street. Labor is friendly to... well... labor.

With trillions of dollars at stake and the Radical Right wanting to eliminate Social Security as well as any Consumer Protection we, as a society, must protect ourselves from those what want to destroy us all in the name of "Profit" and "Free Enterprise". I'm one of these retirees! My remaining days, however long that might be, are dependent on my retirement account having as much deposited into it as possible. My retirement advisors should be working in my favor. In the end, what they are paid should be their reward -- and they shouldn't be able to embellish that reward with ill-begotten funds. These new rules much have both strict instructions on advisor expectations as well as significant penalties if the rules are violated. Mr. President and DOL representatives, be our strongest advocates and leaders!

Too many people trust their financial "advisors" , falsely believing that they are looking out for their (the consumers) best interest. This bill could help to justify that trust. Helps the economy in the long run by putting more money in retirees pockets.

Strong Management (mutual funds) took 40% of my inheritance from me in 2001-2002. They enticed me into buying high risk NASDAC stocks. They manipulated the market. I believe they drove the price up & then sold the stocks. That caused the price to fall. I have lost many thousands of dollars. Had this law been in place I would've been protected rather than been exploited.

I work with elderly and frequently see situations where there has been financial exploitation and abuse of my clients by unscrupulous actions of so called financial advisers. This leaves these folks in a horrible state that often takes a great deal of effort to set right, if that is even possible. You bet they should owe a duty to their clients to act in their best interests and good financial planners agree. The elderly are not just some huge field of profits waiting to be picked. Many are often vulnerable, needing protection and help that they can count on rather than getting fleeced.

Although it is often difficult to decipher which moves by financial advisors are for the customers' security rather than their own financial gain, it is well worth the effort to guide them legally. Those of us who are not as financially savvy need the protection. It might make those advisors involved better human beings as well.

Long overdue. I had an unscrupulous adviser and parent company that changed names whenever the lawsuits grew too many. The result was I lost most of my investments because of greed and lack of conscience. I was 59 1/2 at the time and in a position to have accrued a comfortable 750-1 million when the bottom fell out. The good news is I salvaged what was left and placed it in a product that will pay out for my lifetime. Granted, it isn't a large sum, but it's keeping me from being homeless. Another result of cause and effect is the adviser died at a young age from a second bout with leukemia. It doesn't pay to trick karma. He's gone and I'm still here.

I think this is an essential rule - that would require financial advisors to act in the interest of their customers rather than acting to enhance their own financial gain. Most Americans, myself included (and I am a lawyer) are not knowledgeable about investments. And I switched to a fee only financial advisor only after I had retired when I finally realized that other advisors were making money from their advice. Please support the Department of Labor in issuing these rules and vote against any action Congress may attempt to take to undermine such rules. Thank you in advance for your support of this effort.

This country belongs to the People-ALL of us. Wall Street had better not forget that. We don't have the money the fewest rich do- but we have NUMBERS. And when you mess with the hard-earned cash of a lot of people, it's like messing with a hornet's nest. Bad enough there's been so much hurt dumped on the poor of this country, who have few voices to advocate for them.

Congress destroyed responsible, balanced, guaranteed retirement when they opened up 401Ks and ended pension systems. We, as a nation, are already disgusted with the level of incompetence in congress, please don't add to it by destroying social security. Instead, reenforce it by making EVERYONE pay into it at the same rate. MAKE the rich PAY for the tired, broken backs on top of which they have for so long profited. We want a FAIR government for ALL citizens!

Don't let the big banks use their muscle to derail this common sense solution. Many people now rely on 401Ks instead of pensions for their retirement funds. This makes it all the more essential that advisors act in the consumer's best interest so they don't have to rely on the government when they are elderly.

FDR made sure older adults were well cared for. Result, senior poverty rate plummeted. Today's retirement system is in shambles leaving people to depend on investments. Would you cheat your grandmother? Of course not. Don't cheat other's.

They are "financial advisers". Doctors, lawyers and other professionals are expected to act in the interest of their consumers -- why aren't financial advisors? Every single year, an estimated $17 billion dollars is transferred from Main Street retirement accounts into Wall Street's coffers—because brokers and financial advisers are allowed to steer investors into unethical investments that aren't in their own best interests.

I'm signing the petition because I believe in the cause, but I doubt that the GOP will be swayed. In fact, gerrymandering, voter suppression & the manipulation of public opinion by well-funded disinformation campaigns would seem to ensure that there really is no way to keep the Republicans from turning the country into the United Serfs of America in which 99% of the citizens will labor away in the increasingly dark financial shadow cast by an entrenched 1%.
