

Dear Mary Jo White, chairperson of the Securities and Exchange Commission,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"It's time for the SEC to finally implement the proposal requiring companies to disclose their CEO-to-median worker pay ratio. It's been five years since this proposal was passed under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, but no action has been taken to enforce it. I'm calling on you to finally implement this proposal."

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
Heather Slavkin Corzo, AFL-CIO

This sort of disparity is exactly why I, personally, harbor a lot of resentment towards Wall Street. That, along with all the shady dealings that led to the financial collapse of 2008. Wall Street should be censored and chastised for their lack of morality and fair play!

Too much money is being bled off the tops of American corporations by those in a position to take it rather than actually earning it. And what does management typically do? They cut expenses, such as wages and benefits and reduce costs in other ways such as substituting cheaper components or materials. It's an unsustainable business model.

Workers wages have been stagnant for 30 years while upper management salaries have skyrocketed and far exceed any CEO compensation anywhere else in any developed nation. Our distribution of wealth is worse than most underdeveloped economies. Just because they get away with it doesn't make it right.

People are so used to hearing about the disparity in wealth that they tune it out. They don't believe they can do anything about it anyway. And many aspire to great wealth, and want to protect it in advance. Despite this, we have to try - it's a moral imperative.

It's time for the SEC to finally implement the proposal requiring companies to disclose their CEO-to-median worker pay ratio. It's been five years since this proposal was passed under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, but no action has been taken to enforce it. I'm calling on you to finally implement this proposal.

This must be a stealthy rule/law, since corporations are spending and fighting so hard to pressure the SEC to not impose the rule/law. The SEC must enforce laws congress has passed; to not do so is an act of contempt for congress. Shall we pursue that course of discussion and action against the SEC as well as a starting point to make sure corporations understand they are simply companies, and NOT INDIVIDUALS?

CEO-to-median worker pay ratio in the United States is insane. Nowhere else in the world does such a ratio exist. That ratio should be disclosed. The public needs to know how these CEO's are feathering their "nests" on the work of their employees.

And while we're at it, if companies move their manufacturing and distribution facilities out of the country to lower their costs, pass those savings along to the consumers not to the stock owners. This will keep them from moving the business off shore and save American jobs.

I often rant about the approximately 90% income tax rate on the highest bracket during the Eisenhower years; CEO's did not take such huge salaries, the tax code made it not worthwhile. Since that time, the federal government has gradually moved us back to the robber baron era; I do not want to see class war during my twilight years.

NONE of them are worth the money they are making!!! Bring their salaries down to a reasonable level - the President himself only makes $400k per year!!!! Why should these selfish, arrogant dopes be getting these multi-million dollar pay checks? What do they do that is so much more valuable than what the President does??? And they don't - that's reality. Salaries for CEOs are excessive, obscene and unjustified. END IT NOW.

This hypocrisy with the two classes. The wealthy get away with everything, the poor and the middleclass...get put in prison for some small transgression and it needs to stop. You commit the crime you pay, you make an indecent amount of money while there are those struggling to get by with minimum wage, cut the pay and give more to the workers. Wall street and big corps have no heart and no shame. All they care about is greed and power.

The difference between CEO pay and workers pay is too large. It is destroying the middleclass's ability to have a decent life. Working people are finding it increasingly difficult to afford basic necessities much less to save for retirement or have discretionary income. My small business depends on ordinary people having discretionary income.

Once a bill becomes the Law, the Law shall be enforced! Failure to do so is not an option, it's a required by law mandate. Do it or go to jail! As a private citizen I have to disclose something to someone, somewhere almost every day because its the law of the land for me to do so, so should corporations - if they are people to my friend. Many thanks and be well...

When the "secret" salary of a CEO leaks out, I am Flabbergasted! & that doesn't even tell me the Ratio (but the article tells us later). THEY are Sitting on money taxpayers Gave them TO CREATE JOBS but the little babies Keep saying they're "scared"; they don't know what the economy is going to do, poor little uneducated CEO'S! IF they'd USE that money that WE gave them & create jobs or at Least hire back all the peons they fired when the economy crashed, the scaredy-cat CEO's would see our economy BLOOMING from the Middle Class out! But, they want to keep it all to themselves & expect us to trust that they even Know what they're doing since it's obvious from what they tell us, that they can't figure it out! OR CAN THEY?? & just want us poor & in servitude?

Unless they (A) have something to hide or(B) are afraid actual working people might be outraged enough to revolt, there should be disclosure. After all, they are profiting from the success of their "bottom line", which would not be possible without the hard work of their employees.

JAIL THE CRIMINAL CORPORATE OFFICIALS instead of fining the innocent investors. If those in charge claim they don't know what is going on in their company, they are either inept or are complicit. Either way, they must be jailed for their failures and not be rewarded.

There are more billionaires than camels, which is not a good situation if Jesus spoke truly, It is easier for a camel to go thru the eye of a needle. Than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven. We have an obligation to the rich to give them a fair oportunity to go to Hesven. Free them and our economic slaves before we have to have a revolution to redress grievances.

Do your job, SEC. You may be getting pressure from these corporations not to enforce the law, but you do not work for them, you work for us, the American taxpayer. Remember that WE employ you, and your job is to act under the laws passed FIVE YEARS AGO. This type of job performance would get you fired if you worked for any other employer but the federal government.

If there is nothing to hide, then it stands to reason that there should be no concern with divulging this simple piece of information to the light of day for the public to see. Even if the numbers reflect a very large inequity of company profits to it's employee pay distribution, there is no law I am aware of which mandates any required redistribution of their pay structure. It will merely provide American citizens with a window into the equitable reasonableness and fairness of American companies compensation to their workers. And what is wrong with that?

It's time for corporations to start sharing their prosperity with the people who are critical to corporate success -- the workers. Studies have shown that there is little correlation between the CEO and corporate success, but without workers, corporations couldn't produce anything. It's time they shared.

It's about time - those CEO's don't get more than 24 hours a day in which to function and the function of their organization can be more impacted by the absence of the receptionist. To be paid five times what the receptionist is paid would be adequate - might mean pushing the receptionist's pay up if they want more!

I think if we want progressives to turn the tide of putting financial reform first, then we need to tell the SEC to implement the proposal to disclose it's CEO to median worker pay ratio because the wealthiest one percent making raises & getting the affordable rents & the poor can't really get affordable housing because they don't have a lot of money & the rents are getting so expensive. Who wants to feed their children. That's what Bernie Sanders is saying & we need to update these rules, otherwise Wall Street & big corporations will keep on winning & that they'll do everything they can to stop the SEC from enforcing the rule. That's why we need to support this rule to disclose their CEO to worker ratios & so that the middle class has better days ahead.

I am a Veteran, Active Voter and TaxPayer. As a Veteran I put my life on the line for Democracy. This missive is Democracy in action. It is a sad fact that national socialist philosophy now drives the republican party.

For every $ I make, some one in the ever revolving door of CEOs and their underlings make 375. This is an affront to real American workers. (Too bad Americans are willing to accept 'right to work for less laws and hate unions). Oh well, welcome to the land of greed and the home of cowards.

The only way we will ever begin to address poverty - and its dire consequences- in this country is to at the same time address sky-high CEO pay. It is imperative that we bring down CEO pay while at the same time raising worker pay. There is no other way it's going to work.

I'm a stockholder. What you pay CEOs cuts into company profitability. Do they really bring to the company at least twice their wage in terms of profit? If not, drop their pay or get someone who does. It can't be a profit by selling off losing ventures. It needs to be in real business increases.

It makes me want to take a ride on the proverbial Vomitrom when these greedy a#%holes complain about "entitlements" such as hard earned pensions and social security. Nothing exceeds the entitlements that CEOs feel they should get. We are not broke. We are being robbed. It is time to stand up !

Corporate CEO, and other top mgmt, compensation in this country is totally out of line and needs to be as vivible as possible. People need to know how these top tier mgmt individuals are taking advantage of the American people.

The fact that these companies are so against disclosure of their CEO-to-median worker pay ratio is very telling. They do not want to draw attention to how much income inequality has become in this country. Most Americans would be very interested in knowing why companies are so opposed to disclosing their CEO-to-median worker pay ratio.

This disclosure should not cause undue hardship to Corporations! I am aware however, that when the obscene ratio is available, there very well should / will be a public outcry, boycott, etc.. Ask yourself, is this what they seek to hide via all of this lobbying? Is it because the potential boycott will dip into their profits vis a vis outlandish compensation? And when is it enough - when you can purchase a small country? How about remembering that all of that profit is generated by the working stiffs day in and day out?! No one man or woman is totally responsible for the success of a Corporation! It takes multitudes.

Its about time. American citizens are more informed about politics than ever. With a more connected and educated society comes the need for more transparency. Disclose this information and let the data speak for itself. As our elected official, it is up to you to stand up for those who supported your efforts. The powerful need not a voice, as they can so powerfully speak, but once the volumes of voices from the common man collect, there is no telling how loud our wishes will resonate.

The rule does not go far enough. It should restrict total compensation to no more than 40-80 times the average (mean) workers total compensation, which was the range from the 1950's through early 1970's in the U.S. This requirement would enable the CEOs and top management to earn more compensation by raising the entire enterprises value and sharing the wealth with all associates -- not just the 1% top dogs.

I am the second president of a 102 year old family company and was just named Small Business Leader of the year by MaineBiz. I find the current top to bottom pay ratio terribly destructive to any company that goes that route, and terribly destructive of our society. We have 100 good people working for our company, and it has grown and been profitable every year during the great recession, with a low top to bottom pay ratio. Every company would do well to handle things that way.

Does no one remember what historically happens when the gap between rich and poor gets too wide? We're nearly at that point, with violence in our streets, a militarized police force, and no security in our jobs or homes. It's time to show people how greedy our richest people truly are.

The very fact that Wall Street and big corporations are "lobbying hard" to stop the SEC from disclosing their CEO-to-worker pay ratio is reason enough for those of us who do not make up "the 1%" do everything we can to ensure that the law passed 50 years ago, requiring companies to provide such information, is enforced. They have the money, but we have the numbers. Vote and sign those petitions, my friends!

When CEO's were owners their pay was connected to profits as the workers and the company was their asset and now the scenario has changed and the purpose is primarily profit and no one really cares about the asset or the workers or the product; it's all about profit at the expense of workers, consumers and shareholders... Oil per barrel goes down, but the prices overall remain high and the profits are so outrageous that companies are willing to pay fines which amount to little more than a slap on the hand and if this egregious behavior was done by workers there would be no room in the jails for us; "we have sowed the wind and will continue to reap the whirlwind"...

Currently, the ratio of CEO compensation to average employee compensation in many companies is not only significantly higher than elsewhere in the world; that ratio is increasing. Middle class wages have shrunken, and my generation is now less prosperous than my parents' generation. My wife and I have several degrees from major universities and plenty of success as an individual contributors in the corporate world (one of them a Fortune 15 company). Yet we are scarcely able to afford what my middle-class parents in a small Midwestern town were able to afford. Examples: they could build a brand-new home, buy lakeshore property and build a cabin on it; send their three boys to college, go on major vacations, and much more. We cannot do any of this. Costs are rising, and we are seeing our financial resources diminishing to an alarming extent despite our fundamental Midwestern frugality. I firmly believe that Boards of Directors are not doing their due diligence by approving stratospheric compensation for CEOs and other occupants of the so-called C-suites. The root cause is greed and arrogance. I am convinced that the SEC should implement and enforce the proposal under Dodd-Frank concerning the above-mentioned pay ratios. It's time for the SEC to realign its moral-ethical compass and help ensure a fairer distribution of worker compensation. Pay the CEOs less and increase the base compensation of the rank-and-file. It will make for a more just future for all Americans. I also believe that placing rank-and-file employees on the Board of Directors (as in Germany, for example, should be implemented as one way to help stem the tide of granting out-of-control executive compensation. Thank you for taking the time to read this expression of my concern.

It is way past time to enforce the laws on the books and to do it stringently. The public (whether they are shareholders or not) have a right to know whether a corporation is a good citizen. It could effect purchasing decisions by many. I for one will not buy products from various companies whose policies (including CEO pay) and behavior go against me, or my philosophy. I boycott that firm on a personal level. The SEC, while underfunded and understaffed, needs to prioritize their scrutiny and enforcement on behalf of the majority of citizens. They need to bring to light this glaring statistic and ensure that the information is put out for the people of this country. That may just bring to bear some pressure on the lawmakers to DO something about it.

In a society where one's income defines the value of the individual, CEOs making 373 times what average workers make is the same as saying that the CEO is 373 times as valuable to society as the average worker. Such assumptions have no place in a democratic society.

No one is really worth these kind of salaries, and if the public was more aware of the disparities it would bring an end to the relentless pursuit of the sacred "Bottom Line" at all costs to people (read the 98%) and the planet. Just imagine if all of the excess the fat cats rake in were instead invested in the greater good of humanity and the Earth what a different world this would be!

This proposal has been passed and needs to be enforced. If everything is so fine and CEO's have nothing to hide there should not be a problem. On the otherhand what data we do have available suggests there is a problem with executive pay levels then this aspect of Dodd-Frank needs to be enforced so the general public can see the extent of the problem.

The ratio of other first world countries (e.g. Europe and Japan) is a more reasonable 20 to 30, at least 10 times less than the US ratio. The middle class pumps a much larger fraction of their income into the US economy than the ultrarich and that helps the overall economy.

The Palm Beach Post recently printed CEO pay for companies who either have their headquarters here, have an office here, or do substantial business here. the figures were OBSCENE. I cannot think of a single person who is worth those kinds of ridiculous sums, not matter what their job is. And, just think the President of the United States, with base salary and expenses is only $560,000 and is probably the hardest job in the world. But, I suppose if you purpose as a CEO is to have your company avoid as much tax as possible, to increase your profits at the expense of others, and to find ways to pay less to women for the same job, the perhaps you might be worth a little more than the president, but tens of millions.....OBSCENE.

Executive compensation is totally out of control. Boards of Directors are bought off by their own excess compensation. Public disclosure has the potential to apply social pressure to executives who act generally without a glimmer of conscience.

Publicly traded company should have the utmost of transparency for the public's benefit and that of the shareholders as well. It's time to ensure that the government to enforce the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act instead, as customary for the Republican side, to side with the private sector and not the people. Democracy first, fascism, NEVER!

What's the difference between a corrupt democracy and any other form of corrupt government? Obama: "The rest of the world (God's: pop 7.2 billion (192 countries)) isn't stupid!" After all, isn't approximately one-third of that world already Microsoft free? 2008-04-03: Brazil, India, and China, which together count for more than a third of the world's population, all voted against Office Open XML last week. Address : <http://www.informationweek.com/news/software/productivity_apps/207001577?_requestid=118181> Patriotism begins with knowledge, not lies and propoganda. GREED runs this country - no full time worker for a profitable company should have to get government assistance to feed himself/herself and family, get healthcare, get rent subsidies. ESPECIALLY when the CEOs, stockholders & other 'administrators' get more money than they can ever spend YEARLY!! It's disgusting, heinous GREED, & needs to be stopped! A worker-to-CEO pay ratio needs to be established (comparable to European rates), & vigorously monitored & enforced. No ONE person's 'contribution' to the success of a company is worth the pay these CEOs are getting! Many are even very average in their intelligence & abilities, or even run the companies into the ground, yet get obscenely huge payouts when fired! What regular employee would see that?? Stop the greed, & make working in America FAIR for ALL workers!

The CEO pay ratio to workers has been going up for years. It is now obscene. With the increased profits from cheaper foreign made and prices staying the same as what US made would be, they can well afford to pay workers here a living wage. They should be ashamed No one needs that much money. How many mansions and toys are needed when people are scratching to get by in this country?

While the vile congressional corporate asslackeys fight tooth and nail to steal the bread from our childrens' mouths their corporate puppet masters, like norquist and the koch brothers, are allowed to sequester 32 TRILLION Dollars in taxable income: Leak of Identities & Emails of Rich Hiding $32 Trillion Offshore by samfish - Wed Apr 03, 2013 at 08:42 PM PDT Looks like the rich are sheltering up to $32 TRILLION DOLLARS in cash in the British Virgin Islands... but now we'll be finding out who they are since a leak has given us their names and emails. "Millions of internal records have leaked from Britain's offshore financial industry, exposing for the first time the identities of thousands of holders of anonymous wealth from around the world, from presidents to plutocrats, the daughter of a notorious dictator and a British millionaire accused of concealing assets from his ex-wife." "The leak of 2m emails and other documents, mainly from the offshore haven of the British Virgin Islands (BVI), has the potential to cause a seismic shock worldwide to the booming offshore trade, with a former chief economist at McKinsey estimating that wealthy individuals may have as much as $32tn (£21tn) stashed in overseas havens."

Top management pay in corporations is way out of control. First -- disclose the ratio between what the top line employees make compared to the line workers. That should include all TSAs, insurance, or deferred compensation that may or may not be available to the average worker. Tax policy should set that ratio since mere human beings can't seem to act in any way responsibly when it comes to deciding what their own pay should be!

Everyone's pay should be public knowledge. How else is pay equity to be worked towards, much less reached? Transparency is a good thing for CEO's too. Ever wonder why they are against this transparency?? Ya, me too!

This is why economies throughout history have crash and burned (repeated). Disparity of income and centralization of national wealth is what brings a nation to ruin. It is not about socialism; it is about there being not money left in a country's system for the many to earn.

This is a hugely important issue to me. There is no way a CEO does more for the company in a single day than any worker does for the company in a whole year. This is out of whack and out of hand. And that's why they don't want it reported publicly.

The people have decided that this is a good idea so that your average citizen can see the greed at the top and vote accordingly. Like for instance much higher tax rates for the rich or they could do what a Christian should do give much of it back in the form of raises etc. Hiding the truth is not your job bat the SEC. Just another reason for the middle class to vote for democrats who actually care about people not their country club buddies.

This is not a democracy but a country owned and run for the benefit of the GREEDY and power hungry oligarch's. This country has historically always been on the edge and now the last 35 yrs. have shoved us over into a feudal system. Corporate blackmail and legalized bribery is what it should be labeled as but these people now own the media, also.

Without meaningful enforcement and penalties laws are no more than suggestions to be ignored. It is virtually impossible to understand the SEC's failure to act upon Congress's laws without factoring in the strong likelihood that Wall Street exerts undo power over them. This must stop and the SEC, along with Wall Street, must be held accountable to the American people.

It is ludicrous to think that people who shuffle money around are worth millions per year, while those who actually get something done are worth far less.

373 to 1. That was the average CEO-to-worker pay ratio in 2014 for Standard & Poor's 500-stock index companies. That means the average worker would have to work for an entire year to make what a CEO makes in a single day. When we talk about income inequality and the widening pay gap, this is what we mean.
